Roosevelt Creates U. S. Defense Board

GROUP TO KEEP CLOSE TAB ON WAR SITUATION

President Appoints Wallace To Head Board Co-ordinating Various Departments.

WILL PLAN PROGRAM

Group Will Study Existing and Proposed Laws on International Affairs.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt today established a new "economic defense board" to keep him constantly advised of necessary economic defense measures which must be taken for the protection of the nation

Vice-President Henry A. Wallace was named to head the new board.

The agency was established by executive order and other members will be the secretaries of state, treasury, war, navy, agriculture, commerce and the attorney general.

The economic board will keep a close check on all international developments relating to the exports, imports, disposition of materials from foreign countries, transactions in foreign exchange, international investments, credit extensions of credit, [illegible] and transportation, patents and international communication.

The president order directs the agency to coordinate the policies of the various departments and bureaus now carrying on activities relating to economic defense in these fields.

It is further charged with developing an "integrated economic defense plan and program" and see that it is carried out.

Further, Mr. Roosevelt called for advice on the relationship of such economic defense measures pertaining to postwar economic reconstruction, and what steps will be taken to protect the American trade position in the light of an ultimate sound, peacetime international relationship.

Finally, it was ordered that the board review proposed or existing legislation affecting defense and, with the approval of the president, recommend any additional legislation that may be necessary.

It was considered likely that the cabinet members serving with the vice president would appoint alternates to keep them constantly advised of the board's activities, as the presidential order provides for such a move subject to approval of the chairman.

Advertising, Good Buys Attract Big Throngs to Stores

Good merchandising with effective advertising bring good business, some 50 Mansfield stores participating in the Retail Merchants association semi-annual bargain days, found out today.

Today was the first of two days of bargains in summer and fall merchandise which the 50 Mansfield stores are offering.

Main street was crowded.

The down town area was filled with shoppers this morning. So great was the demand on one store that the proprietor was forced to close the doors, leaving a line waiting outside until the store had cleared enough to open the doors again.

Mansfield Rapid Transsit company whose buses brought shoppers downtown free from all parts of the city between 9 a. m. and 11:15 a. m., estimated that better than 800 people rode the buses during that time.

ADDRESSES GRANGE

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Louis J. Taber of Columbus, master of the National Grange, and Harry A. Caton, of Coshocton, secretary, will speak at the state grange's summer camps, Aug. 10-12 near Lancaster and Aug. 17-19 near Medina.

Proves It! Drives 500 Miles Without Toot

C. C. Beelman . . . It's easy to drive without blowing horn.

C. C. Beelman Finds Its Possible to Operate Car More Intelligently Without Using Horn.

By WILLIAM F. MURRAY

Driving 500 miles without blowing the horn on your automobile can actually improve your driving, according to C. C. Beelman, 356 Davis road, the first motorist in Mansfield to successfully complete The News-Journal's plan to show the needlessness of excessive horn blowing.

"As a matter of fact," said Beelman, who completed his 500-mile drive in silence yesterday, "the experiences I went through helped me to use my 'noodle' a lot more. There were several traffic situations where all the horns in the world would have done nothing more than to add to the general confusion."

The Mansfield motorist started his long drive shortly after Frank Beverstock, secretary of the Richland County Auto club, suggested the 500-mile drive to eliminate the greater per cent of "needless noise" in driving

Beverstock's idea was supported by several city and county officials, and a canvass of public opinion by The News-Journal revealed that an ordinance prohibiting unnecessary horn-blowing was generally favored.

Councilman George L. Kyle has promised to submit an ordinance to council to curb excessive tooting Kyle is studying ordinances from other cities for the purpose of drafting a similar one for Mansfield.

Beelman, who is a real estate man drove for about three weeks to complete his 500-mile trip. During his driving, he found little or no reason for startling pedestrians or other motorists into activity.

"The closest I came to using the horn was yesterday," said Beelman, "when the 500 miles were nearly up. Even then the horn would not have helped me at all. It was in Sandusky and another driver crashed a light."

The greatest part of the Mansfield man's tour was in Mansfield. About 40 per cent was in other cities and on the roads between cities.

When asked if he found any special section of the city troublesome for the driver with the muzzled horn, Beelman chose the square around Central park. Even there, he felt that the less horns are blown, the better for pedestrians and motorists.

Beelman said that driving caused a good deal less tension since the horn-blowing in the city has waned because of the campaign.

"It's a lot easier and safer to drive when you haven't got dozens of horns blaring from all directions," Beelman declared

SOLONS TO GET PRICE-FIXING BILLS TODAY

Identical Measures Will Be Submitted In Senate and House, Leaders Say.

PROTESTS BEING HEARD

Farm-Minded Lawmakers Hint They'll Oppose Ceilings on Agricultural Products.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (UP) — President Roosevelt today summoned key administration officials concerned with price and credit controls to discuss installment credit, which he regards as one thing that must be controlled to prevent inflation.

WASHINGTON — Congressional leaders planned speedy action today on President Roosevelt's request for broad price-fixing powers to meet inflationary trends "threatening to undermine our defense effort."

Senate and house leaders, who conferred late yesterday on final details of broad-termed legislation, said identical bills would be introduced in both houses today.

Senate Majority Leader Barkley (D. Ky.) acknowledged that there had been several last minute changes proposed in the measures, but like other congressional leaders he remained secretive about exact details.

Although President Roosevelt's message to congress yesterday evoked bi-partisan support in both houses, it also aroused rumblings of vigorous opposition, especially from farm-minded lawmakers.

Senator Bankhead (D. Ala.), who has sponsored many administration farm bills, bluntly announced that he would oppose any ceiling on cotton at less than 20 cents a pound, declaring that 20 cent ceiling would be only 20 per cent above a parity price of 16.49 cents a pound and would tend to offset a 20 per cent reduction in this year's crop caused by adverse weather and insect damage.

"Parity income for farmers is the declared policy of this administration," he added. (Parity would give farm products relatively the same purchasing power,

105,000 Are Annihilated In Leningrad Area

Nazis Say Thousands of Prisoners Are Taken on Northeast Front; Moscow Gives No Hint Fall of City May Be Near; Forests Being Fired.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—A counter-offensive by more than 3,000,000 Red army soldiers on a front stretching from Leningrad to Kiev was predicted today in Soviet Russian military circles here.

(By Associated Press)

German troops smashing toward Leningrad, Russia's great western port, were reported today to have destroyed seven Red army divisions (about 105,000 men) on the northeast front.

Nazi dispatches said the Russian troops were annihilated after completion of a German encirclement movement. Thousands of prisoners were reported taken.

Earlier advices had already indicated that Soviet defenses were crumbling before Leningrad, with German columns striking from the south and Finnish troops moving down the Karelian peninsula from the north in a gigantic "squeeze" maneuver.

A Red army bulletin, reporting bitter fighting all along the 2,000-mile battlefront, gave no hint that the fall of Leningrad might be imminent.

North of the city of more than 3,000,000 population, lying on the Gulf of Finland, the Germans said Russian troops were spraying the forest and fields with naphtha and then setting them afire with artillery barrages in a desperate attempt to stem the advance.

Adolf Hitler's headquarters, commenting on the Leningrad thrust, declared tersely:

"Units fighting in Estonia threw back the opponent to the north."

On the central front, in the drive toward Moscow, the Nazi communique asserted that a steel trap around Red armies east of Smolensk had been "further tightened."

In the south, it was said, German troops were knifing deep into "defeated Russian armies" retreating into the Ukraine.

Simultaneously, the Germans branded as a "dismal failure" the first joint British-Russian military action of the 40-day-old conflict—an aerial assault yesterday on a Nazi-occupied port in northern Norway.

The Germans said the British lost 28 planes launched from a carrier in the Arctic ocean.

In London, the admiralty reported that British naval aircraft violently attacked the northern port of Kirkenes, Norway, and the Finnish port of Petsamo, hitting at least four ships and inflicting "great damage on jetties and oth-

RESUMES TALKS WITH STALIN

Hopkins, In Moscow, Discusses Delivery of U. S. War Goods to Russia.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW — Further conferences between Premier Joseph Stalin and Harry L. Hopkins, personal representative of President Roosevelt, were expected today—the 40th of the Russian-German war—as the Soviet army was reported battling the Nazi invaders to a standstill in vital sectors of the long battlefront.

Heavy fighting raged throughout the night, a communique said on the path of the German drives toward Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev.

Mention however, of familiar place names which have appeared in Russian war bulletins for days—Porkhov, Novorzhev, Smolensk and Zhitomir — created the impression there had been no marked change in the fighting lines.

The Russians said they had beaten off three German attempts to bomb Leningrad by daylight yesterday and another attack on Moscow last night.

One German infantry regiment, harassed by land and air in the Smolensk sector west of Moscow, was reported to have lost two-thirds of its officers and men during the last few days.

Large quantities of German equipment have been captured, the Russians declared, and the Nazis now "are showing lack of artillery and supplies"

Hopkins, who flew to Moscow

CHICKENS WIN THIS BATTLE

Hen Gobbles Up Snake After It Threatens One of Flock.

ODESSA, Wash.—(AP)—The hens in J. W. Hartford's barnyard all gathered 'round to watch an ambitious member of the flock who'd swallowed half a snake.

The other half looped around the hen's neck and was throttling her when Hartford intervened. The 4-ft-long snake unwound and the hen let go, both willing to call it a draw.

The embarrassed snake had started to wriggle away when another hen dashed out of the cackling circle, gobbled him up and strutted away.

ARRIVES FRIDAY

Miss Van Gundia began her training for Red Cross work at Heidelberg college and immediately after graduation went to national Red Cross headquarters for further work.

Recommended by the board's finance committee, headed by Mrs. George Draffan, Miss Van Gundia was employed July 8, at the regular meeting of the board.

Mansfield's new traffic division, minus one of its five members, will go on duty tomorrow but will not do traffic duty until Sunday and then only in a student capacity. Their first "big" job will be issuing bicycle licenses.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates announced today that the four men already appointed would be working "inside" for several days but that they might accompany veteran members of the police force on traffic duty Sunday.

REDUCE ODDS

British Bookies Accepting 1 To 3 Bets on Axis Defeat.

LONDON —(UP)— Bookmakers here are accepting bets on a 1 to 3 basis that the Allies will defeat the Axis before the end of this year, the most optimistic view of Britain's prospects since the early days of the war, it was learned today.

Two weeks ago some stock exchange dealers here announced that they would accept bets on the chances of an Axis defeat by the close of 1941. The wagering started with the odds 10 to 1 against such eventuality.

Last week, with greater Russian resistance to the Nazi advance, the odds were lowered to seven to one.

An even sharper downward revision was made today when these dealers cut the odds to three to one.

Two Injured By Bolt as Break In Heat Arrives

Lightning Strikes Ashland Women at Picnic at Long Lake; Mercury Stays at 80.

Two Mansfield area women sustained shock and burns last night when a bolt of lightning leaped from the cord of an electric roaster they were operating at a picnic at Long lake during one of several thunderstorms which marked a break in the heat wave that has gripped the state for nearly a week.

Mrs. Beatrice Williams and Mrs. G. B. Page, both of Ashland, the injured women, were removed to the Good Samaritan hospital, Ashland, after treatment in Loudonville.

Hospital authorities said that neither was seriously hurt and would be released today. Two men accompanying the women also suffered shock but not badly enough to warrant treatment.

The end of Mansfield's wave appeared at hand today after a night of comparatively cool temperatures.

Local thunderstorms and readings considerably below the 90-and-up that have plagued the city for ten days were predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

A sudden afternoon shower yesterday at 4 p. m. brought the mercury down several degrees and an overcast sky kept the low level throughout the night. Occasional breezes helped to ease the high humidity reading.

Highest mark for the mercury for yesterday was 94 degrees which the rain brought down to

DEBATE BONUS

Senate Argues Bill Giving $30 Monthly To Selectees.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The senate debates today a proposal by Sen. Sheridan Downey, D., Calif., to pay a $30 monthly bonus to selectees and national guardsmen who serve more than a year.

Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, has opposed bonus payments to the restricted troops to obtain their re-enlistment, contending that history has proven that armies developed by such method are unsatisfactory.

The senate also may consider today the compromise proposal of Sen. Robert A. Taft, R., O., which is expected to attract the support of non-interventionists who oppose the administration plan to retain the troops for the duration of the emergency.

Taft's proposal would authorize an 18-month training period for the troops.

FACKLER GETS PROTEST POST

Richland Countian Named To National Committee Against Quotas.

H. H. Fackler, who operates a northern Richland county farm near Plymouth, was named on a six-member executive committee of the National Marketing Quota Protesting association last night as more than 100 farmers from three states met at Marysville to launch a nation-wide fight against the government AAA wheat penalty.

Russell R. Kiko of Canton, who is scheduled to speak at a county mass meeting of farmers in Mansfield next Monday night, was chosen temporary chairman of the organization at the Marysville meeting.

Fackler, one of the organizers of the protest movement against the wheat quotas in Richland county, and Gilbert Myerl of Castalia are the Ohio members of the executive committee. There are two members from Indiana and two from Illinois.

Kiko said a permanent organization will be set up within two weeks at a meeting at the Indiana

SEEK CLUES

Cleveland Police Investigate $20,000 Jewel Robbery.

DETROIT - (INS) - The smudge of a finger print on the rear-view mirror of an automobile was the principal clue left for police today after a $20,000 daylight jewel robbery and the kidnaping of a young Cleveland salesman.

Sandy Rivchun, 22-year-old jewelry salesman, told police two tall men forced him and his chauffeur at the point of a gun to drive to the outskirts of the city yesterday. There, Rivchun said, he and the chauffeur were compelled to hide under the car windows while the men transferred six sample cases of gems from his car to another auto driven by confederates.

The salesman said the bandits drove off in this and a third car. He directed officers to the mirror of his machine which he said one of the bandits had handled.

Primary's Just 12 Days Off ---But You'd Hardly Know It

In 12 days Mansfield will have a municipal primary to select candidates for city offices, but city residents and the candidates themselves apparently are paying little attention to it.

The campaign so far has been one of the quietest in the city's history with none of the fanfare and speech-making that usually help to stir interest before a primary or general election.

Lack of contests is responsible for the listless campaign, political leaders said. Interest in the war, hot weather, and vacations also are helping voters to forget the primary Aug. 12, they added.

With no contests on their ticket, the Republicans have no reason to get excited about the outcome of the primary. Democrats, however, have four races, including one for mayor.

The politicos who watch campaign activities say James F. Orr, seeking the Democratic nomination for mayor, is the only candidate who is outwardly campaigning throughout the city. He is distributing campaign cards and contacting voters.

GERMANS CLAIM SEVEN RUSSIAN DIVISIONS FALL

Berlin Says 105,000 Troops Annihilated In Area of Leningrad.

er port facilities. The British acknowledged 16 planes lost.

With the Russo-German struggle midway in its sixth week, an official Rome announcement said Italy's expeditionary corps has now reached its "zone of assembly on the eastern front" to fight with the Germans against the Soviets.

Previous reports said 15 trainloads of Fascist troops and war supplies were moving to the front daily.

Moscow dispatches reported that the German luftwaffe had been beaten off in three attempts to bomb Leningrad. The Red army communique said heavy fighting raged throughout the night in familiar sectors—Porkhov, Novovzhev, Smolensk and Zhitomir — indicating that there had been no marked change in the battle lines.

In the far east, tension eased somewhat as Japan, apparently anxious to avoid any further strain in relations with the United States, virtually "jumped the gun" to apologize for bomb damage to the U. S. gunboat Tutuila during a Japanese air raid on Chungking, China.

Before Joseph C. Grew, U. S. ambassador to Tokyo, could present representations on behalf of his government, Japanese Foreign Minister Vice Admiral Teijiro Toyoda hastened to offer apologies and express regret for the incident.

The foreign minister's action was in marked contrast to the attitude adopted recently by the Japanese press, which has been extremely hostile toward both the United States and Britain.

The Russian war, meanwhile, entered its 40th day with emphasis on the diplomatic front as Harry L. Hopkins, President Roosevelt's personal representative, was expected to continue conferences in Moscow with Premier Josef Stalin.

Hopkins, who called on the rarely-interviewed Russian leader yesterday at Roosevelt's request, said they discussed questions of supplies at the first interview. Stalin, he said, gave him a message to the president promising that Russia will play its part in crushing Hitler.

Hopkins, in return, told Stalin that the U. S. will help Russia against Hitler and expressed Roosevelt's "great satisfaction with the fight the Soviets are putting up in their country."

The Russians said a German air raid attempt on Moscow shortly after Hopkins saw Stalin at the Kremlin was thwarted and the raiders forced to turn back with the loss of one plane.

Disclosure that a British aircraft carrier was operating off Norway's northern coast caused widespread interest. These craft normally are well guarded by other naval units and it was presumed that a considerable British squadron might be somewhere in Arctic waters.

A German radio bulletin crediting Nazi naval guns with shooting down two of the British planes also aroused belief that Nazi warships might have been involved.

The RAF despite unfavorable weather conditions, last night raided western Germany again for the first time since Friday. German raids over England were reported negligible.

Send First-Class Army to Indo-China

SAIGON, FRENCH INDO-CHINA —(AP)— Japanese troops formally entered Saigon today and persons familiar with Japanese military outfits were quick to comment that Tokyo has sent a first-class army.

In equipment, discipline and efficiency, these persons said, the newly-arrived Japanese forces rank among Japan's best. They described them as ready for action, if necessary, and not for exhibition only.

With a program worked out in fine detail, the Japanese moved precisely into their recently acquired naval and air bases, the army, navy and air force collaborating in methodical manner.

They have brought in their own tents, trucks, fuel, food and a wide variety of other equipment. A civilian army of Japanese business men has begun buying up all available cotton for quick shipment home and is negotiating for rubber, minerals and other merchandise that may be produced here.

Along a French-policed route, a three-hour parade of Japanese trucks loaded with troops and equipment moved from the dock area, where the men arrived in transports yesterday, to three stations whose exact locations were kept a military secret.

The first group occupied a school and adjoining houses, the second occupied former annamite barracks on the outskirts of Saigon, where the Japanese requisitioned all houses, and a third proceeded to an airport.

ceive their uniforms for about two weeks and will not be used for street work until then, according to Bates.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., the "rookies" will handle the registration of new license plates for bicycles. Bates said that department had been unable to handle the issuance of licenses earlier this year because of the lack of sufficient men.

Mayor William J. Locke, returned last night from a ten days' fishing trip to Camp Beaverland, Canada, is expected to select the fifth member of the traffic squad before Monday. Locke said today that he had not received a certified list of the three men eligible for the post.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton, the city's legal appointing authority, postponed appointing the needed officer until the mayor's return.

Although Bates said he would use the new appointees for traffic duty, he pointed out that it would be possible to use any five members of the department for that purpose. He said that the new policemen were merely third class patrolmen and that they were added so that five men would be available for traffic work.

Arthur L. Croak, chairman of city council's traffic committee, will ask council to appropriate funds for the purchase of equipment needed by the new traffic squad at council's regular August meeting Tuesday.

Croak said today that an additional motorcycle and two new radios would be needed for the squad. At present, the police department has only two cycles, one of which is equipped with radio.

New patrolmen appointed by Locke include Robert E. Robnolte, Roeliff R. Hout, Robert L. Garver and Richard Hecht. Charles P. Robnolte, also appointed by the mayor, refused the post for financial reasons.

Training of the new patrolmen, which was to have taken place during the past two weeks, was held up because of Locke's absence. Bates refused to appoint a traffic commissioner to train the men until five were appointed. Crafton postponed the appointment until Locke's return.

a low of 68. Average temperature for the day was 81 degrees, nine more than the 16-year average. The thermometer had climbed to 80 degrees by noon today.

The light rain and a high wind hitting the city in the afternoon were only the tail-end of a more severe storm which struck north of here.

Shelby was hit hard by the storm with several hundreds of dollars worth of damage done to utility lines. Limbs of trees were torn off during the violent storm which gave the appearance of a "baby" tornado when it struck.

Electrical service to business places and domestic consumers on the south side of Main street west of the Black Fork creek was cut off during the storm until about 5 p. m. when the line was repaired where it was broke on South Gamble street.

The break affected about three hundred domestic consumers in that area of Shelby.

Several hundred telephone consumers were still without service today as employes of the Shelby-Bucyrus Telephone company here were busy repairing breaks in the telephone lines. Company officials estimated that it would take several days to restore the service to all of the homes. A number of country homes west and southwest of the city are without telephone service also.

Widely scattered showers and thunderstorms brought relief to much of the area still sweltering from the year's worst heat wave.

Most of the baked eastern two-thirds of the nation enjoyed falling temperatures starting Monday. Warmer weather, meanwhile, was moving eastward from the northern plains states and was expected to reach Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin tomorrow.

The heat wave cost 316 lives, 178 by prostration and 168 by drowning.

The mercury dropped over much of the state following thundershowers yesterday, but not before temperatures reached again into the 90's and the heat wave's death toll climbed to 37. Nineteen persons have died of prostration, 15 drowned, two killed by lightning and one by wind.

Lightning threw 150 miners out of work temporarily when it struck a shaft fanhouse at the Sunday Creek Coal company's mine No. 90 near Shawnee, causing damage estimated at between $3,000 and $4,000.

State fairgrounds in Indianapolis. He said the group would oppose the 49-cent penalty on excess wheat, urge enactment of proposed hog-processing tax refund provisions, and demand that congress revoke marketing quotas for wheat.

Protesting Richland county farmers will meet in Mansfield next Monday night, while plans are being completed for a state-wide meeting here within two weeks.

Congressman J. Harry McGregor, representing the 17th district and Richland county, expressed confidence today that the house would approve a senate amendment to a wheat and cotton marketing bill which would permit farmers to feed excess grain to livestock and poultry, an International News Service dispatch from Washington said. The amendment was passed by the senate by a vote of 34 to 23.

"This amendment will give our farmers immediate relief, and I'm sure we have enough votes in the house to approve," McGregor said.

With the wheat penalty controversy growing stormier in Ohio, about 450 wheat growers from the western plains states are due to arrive in Dayton, Friday on a tour designated to promote good will and determine sentiment in the east toward the AAA wheat program, according to the Associated Press.

Frank O. Robinson of Kearney, Neb., who suggested the tour, said "western farmers expect to harvest one of their best crops in years and are concerned over reports of protests from eastern wheat farmers against provisions of the wheat marketing program."

Arriving in special trains, the visiting farmers from Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, Iowa, and Missouri are scheduled to tour the Miami valley tomorrow and go to Indiana Saturday to inspect farm conditions.

from London Tuesday, was almost immediately granted an interview with the most important and most inaccessible man in Russia. He said he came to see Stalin at Roosevelt's request and he expected another meeting today and perhaps several more before he leaves.

(Hopkins saw his first Moscow air raid from a balcony last night, according to Erskine Caldwell, CBS Moscow correspondent. As the sirens sounded at midnight Hopkins watched the city's defenses go into action and then went down into a shelter. At noon he lunched with the British ambassador, Sir Stafford Cripps.)

Giving one of the few public reports of an interview with Stalin, Hopkins said in a press conference at the U. S. embassy residence:

"We discussed problems of supply, including types and quantity of materials that can be delivered to the U. S. S. R. I cannot presently speak of the details or quantities.

"Stalin gave me a message to transmit to the president. He expressed his sincere appreciation to the president for his offer of assistance and declared he is certain the president and the American people are not mistaken in expressing their conviction that the Soviet people will play their role in crushing Hitler.

"I expressed the president's great satisfaction with the fight the Soviets are putting up in their country and his admiration for that fight."

Hopkins summed up his mission as one of "getting supplies here immediately."

"I am sure the problem of payment for these supplies will not be any difficulty later," he said. "There simply must be no delay about this."

The delegates met last Thursday to hear a report on the status of the airport and its future needs as reported by the Junior Association of Commerce. The proposed bond issue must be approved by the Chamber of Commerce directors before presentation to council for a place on the ballot in November.

Foreign Minister Says Armed Forces Told To Be Cautious When Near U. S. Property.

morning Vice Foreign Minister Kumaichi Yamamoto called at the embassy and requested permission for Foreign Minister Vice Admiral Teijiro Toyoda, to call.

The visit was cancelled at the last minute, however, and it was requested that Grew call instead at the foreign office. There the foreign minister expressed the government's regret.

The Japanese initiative occurred before Ambassador Grew was able to act on Washington's instructions to make representations against the bombing, which occurred yesterday.

In his 20-minute talk with the foreign minister, Grew was assured that the Japanese armed forces everywhere had been instructed to take the utmost care that American property not be damaged.

Although the bombing of the Tutuila put a fresh strain on relations with Japan the Japanese, while manifesting some apprehension, apparently were ready to risk their merchantmen in American ports for the present.

Although the state department still refused specific assurances on the ships, developments indicated that Japan had decided to permit at least some of her United States-bound vessels to make port.

More than 40 of them have been lying off the coasts for days, because of owners' fears that they might be immobilized in American waters under last week's order freezing all Japanese assets.

The $15,000,000 liner Tatuta Maru put into San Francisco yesterday six days behind schedule—the first to dock since the freezing order. Subsequently, another overdue Japanese freighter reached Balboa in the Canal Zone. Other belated Japanese ships were to make Honolulu and Seattle some time today.

Asks Ceiling for Prices and Rents

ALTHOUGH somewhat tardy, President Roosevelt's request that congress enact price and rent control legislation, in an effort to prevent runaway inflation, comes at a time when this subject has attained lively interest.

Presented as an emergency need associated with the defense program, the president opened his message to congress by saying: "Inflationary price rises and increases in the cost of living are today threatening to undermine our defense effort."

Pressure of defense and civilian demands for limited supplies of materials and merchandise were set forth as principal causes for price advances, coupled with the charge that "speculators, anticipating successive price advances, withhold commodities from essential military production."

That the element of profiteering has already entered into price increases, in the president's opinion, is indicated by his statement: "Great profits are reaped by some, while others, with fixed and low incomes, find their living standards drastically reduced and their life-long savings shrunken . . . the burden of defense is thrown haphazardly and inequitably on those with fixed income or whose bargaining power is too weak to secure increases in income commensurate with the rise in the cost of living."

Admitting that the effort to maintain a stable level of prices through voluntary co-operation of business had been widely supported by far-sighted business leaders, the president contended that there have been some cases of evasion and bootlegging and that others have openly defied the office of price administration and civilian supply.

Asking that ceilings be established on prices and rents, the president said: "Our national safety demands that we take steps at once to extend, clarify and strengthen the authority of government to act in the interest of the general welfare . . . and, like other defense legislation, it should expire with the passing of the need."

Dealing sharply with the subjects of increases in prices and rents, President Roosevelt became milder in his discussion of wage increases, of which he said: "There will always be need for wage adjustments from time to time, to rectify inequitable situations. . . . Of course there cannot be price stability if labor costs rise abnormally. Labor has far more to gain from price stability than from abnormal wage increases."

It was not proposed, however, that there be a wage "ceiling," such as is advised for prices and rents, but it was suggested that "labor, as a whole, will fare best from a labor policy which recognizes that wages in defense industries should not substantially exceed the prevailing wage rates in comparable non-defense industries where fair labor policies have been maintained."

Whatever action may be taken by congress, in compliance with President Roosevelt's ideas of what should be done, it appears quite obvious that, except in cases of unmistakable profiteering, prices and wages are so closely linked that they must be considered and dealt with together.

It is also apparent that the same elements of greed and chicanery that have entered into construction contracts for some of the military camps, are cropping out in the increasing prices of commodities and rents, and that the firm hand of government—intelligently administered—must be used in curbing those who seek excessive individual profits at the expense of the American people as a whole.

Clearance for Japanese Ships

THE BIG Japanese liner, Tatuta Maru, after hovering off shore for several days, finally came into San Francisco when the United States government announced that all Japanese vessels in American ports would be given prompt clearance.

This meant that the 100 Americans on board did not have to be ferried in from beyond the three-mile limit, or travel home from some foreign port on other vessels.

Other vessels, less famous, had a chance, too, to finish their business in American ports and depart. Probably America has suffered no harm by this state department interpretation of the situation. Many citizens wish that other problems connected with the Japanese could be solved so simply.

Russia's Role In U. S. Defense

AMERICA was largely responsible for Hitler's attack on Russia, according to Frederick Palmer, veteran war correspondent. As Mr. Palmer explains it, Hitler wanted to crush Russia before our army could get into action, then turn and face the music with no enemy, real or potential, at his back.

That may well be true. And if so, perhaps this country owes the Russians, now bearing the burden of that tremendous onslaught, a debt of thanks, not to mention any material help that can be given them. For they are proving to be a harder nut to crack than Hitler expected, and the longer they keep him occupied, the better our defenses will be.

'Gas Before Seven' In Canada

FIRST of the stories about Canadian gas rationing, comes from St. Thomas, Ont., where a tourist from "the States" ran out of gas at 7:10 in the evening. Could he get it? No, the pumps were locked for the night. The tourist had to put in the time as best he could until 7 in the morning when the locks came off again.

Between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. there is plenty of gas in Canada. But the tourist had better keep an eye on his gauge as afternoon turns toward evening. Gas before seven is now the rule.

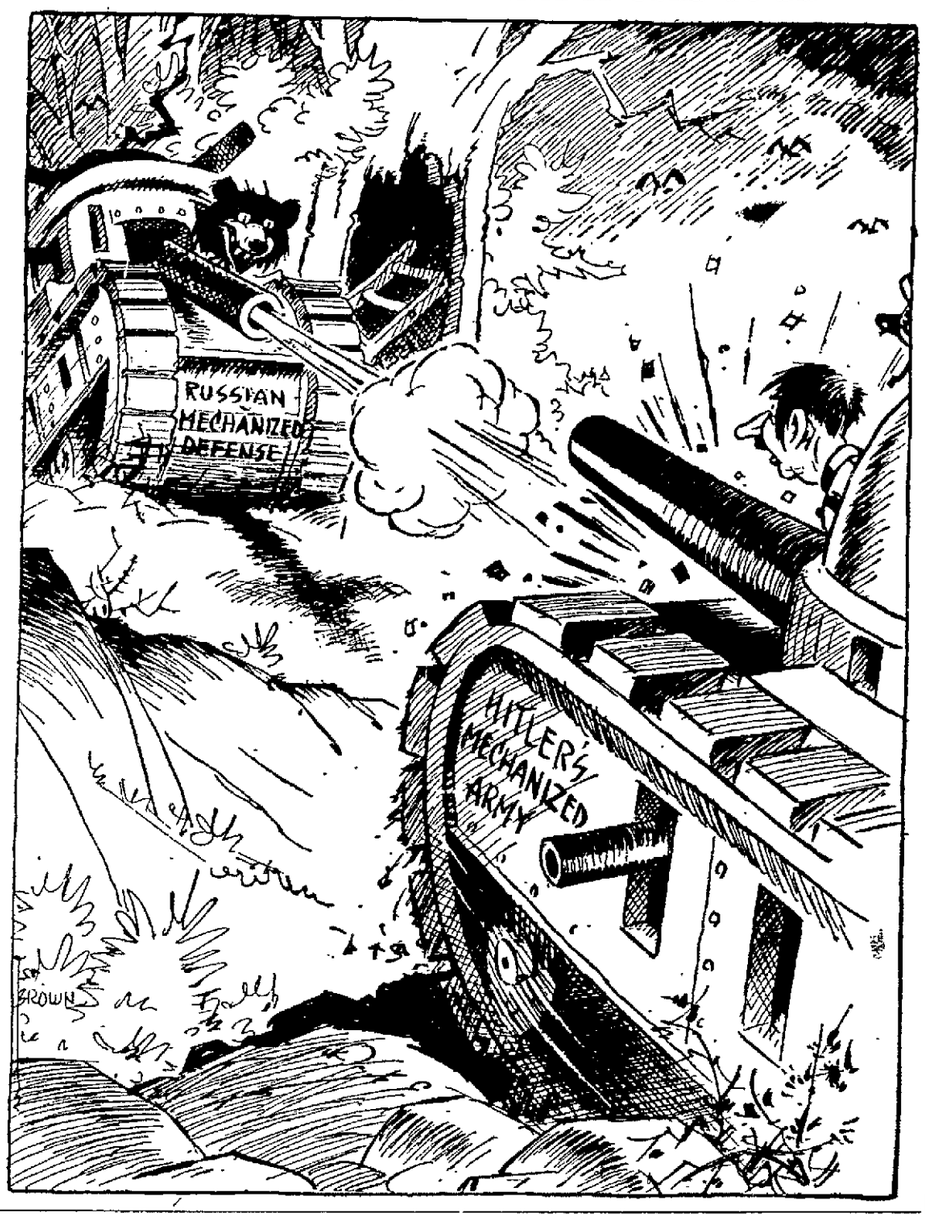
Eastern co-eds have been advised: "You don't have to leave the world in the way you find it"—so their mothers will probably have to continue picking up the things left lying around.

Most recent check-up discloses that the average Wellesley girl owns seven-tenths of a fur coat—but is probably able to borrow the other three-tenths from her room-mate.

As nearly as can be figured, there's such a surplus of wheat that it's necessary to increase the price of bread.

When someone casually asks, "What do you know?" it doesn't mean that he expects you to tell everything.

BEAR HUNTING ISN'T WHAT IT USED TO BE



Listen World!

Let the Boys Vote!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I'M NO WASHINGTON TIPSTER. I've neither the knowledge nor the inclination to peer into congressional keyholes. But, as a common citizen, I sometimes remember that I help pay for those keyholes—and have a right to comment on the things which go on behind them.

F'instance, this suggestion—or, rather, demand—by General Marshall, that the Selectees be retained in the army after their one year service.

By the time you read this, congress may have acted upon it, probably in compliance with General Marshall's plan. For there's plainly stern necessity behind that request. However much we may loathe war and resist the thought of our boys being thrust into it, we must face facts. The facts are that our standing army of 210,000 regulars was a joke for a nation of this size, until the draft raised it to 1,448,500.

Putting the question of war aside, thinking only of defense, the American army is still a joke. In spite of the millions spent and the effort exerted, the Draftees are only half trained . . . and the regular organization has been largely demoralized to give them that training.

If we allow them to return home after a year—and, for some, their year's service will soon be completed—the taxpayers' money will have been largely wasted—and our military defense will still be tragically inadequate. We'll have to begin all over again and end in the same futility, with ever-increasing peril.

These were undoubtedly some of the arguments presented by ernest, able General Marshall in secret session. And I'm not quarreling with them. Anyone with the brains God gave a gooseberry can realize their urgency and the need for secret preliminary discussion. But there's one weakness in their presentation which characterizes our whole set-up at present . . . and which will ultimately get our national goat. Or I don't know my Americans.

I refer to the fact that it does not seem to occur to the Army, Navy or congress that the recruits, themselves, have a right to be consulted ultimately concerning their own destiny. At least, given a vote.

I haven't the slightest doubt what the result of that vote would be. If our recruits were given a convincing picture of our national danger and ASKED if they'd stand by, at least ninety per cent of them would do so willingly. Then razz the other ten per cent into conformance. But to ORDER them to stay, without giving them a voice, would mean wholesale resentment if not downright rebellion. And would lead to far worse things.

In the first place, such an act would be plain cheaty. These recruits came into the army under the promise and assumption that they would serve the term of one year. If they are forced without being consulted now, to serve a longer term, somebody's getting by with murder. And there never was a Yankee who liked a crooked shuffle. Also, such compulsion goes against the American grain. And is plain, dumb foolishness because it isn't necessary.

We're a strange people, we Americans. We'll make any sacrifice, endure any hardship, run any risk, if we're ASKED . . . if it's put up to us as a question of personal honor and pride. Every war we've ever fought has proved that. But we'll buck like unbroken broncos if we're ORDERED.

WHICH IS SIMPLY ANOTHER WAY OF SAYING THAT WE'RE A NATION OF FREE AND PROUD INDIVIDUALISTS, NOT REGIMENTED ROBOTS.

We are building in frantic defense against such regimentation. Yet the very attitude displayed in this discussion of draft extension . . . the ignoring of the common soldier's right to have an ultimate voice in the matter . . . is exactly the sort of thing which leads to regimentation—and dictatorship.

DICTATORS DON'T HAPPEN OVERNIGHT. THEY OOZE IN — THROUGH LOCKED KEYHOLES.

MILITARY DISCIPLINE IS ONE THING — AND A FINE AND NECESSARY THING. BUT INDIVIDUAL MORALE IS AN INFINITELY PROUDER AND MORE POTENT THING . . . SOMEONE SHOULD REMEMBER THAT FACT. THERE'S GETTING TO BE TOO MUCH "ORDERING" AROUND THESE WORKS . . . AND FAR TOO LITTLE "ASKING."

Farm Labor Shortage.

With more than 6,000,000 workers idle in the United States, there is a shortage of farm labor that is disheartening to the farmers and is compelling their wives and children to go into the fields in the hope of realizing on the best cash income prospects that have existed in about 12 years.

According to the president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the labor shortage is serious and far-reaching, covering even the south where normally there is a surplus of such help. Agricultural areas adjacent to industrialized centers are especially crippled, because men who once were happy to earn a livelihood on the farm have gone to factories and mills, just as they did in the World War, lured by the attraction of high wages and short hours.

Under the circumstances, when foods are held to be so vital to the defense economy, it would seem the federal government could alter some of its nonproductive and often useless work plans in order to assure that the year's perishable and staple food crops may be saved.—Ohio State Journal.

I Miss My Laddie

—By ANNE CAMPBELL

When morning came he used to run
Down sloping stairs to greet the sun.
Now there is a new day begun—
I miss my laddie!

The hours plod with their shackled feet.
There is no gay young son to greet.
The laggard wind stirs in the wheat.
I miss my laddie!

This was the hour when he would come
Swinging his books, glad to be home.
When twilight melts into the gloam.
I miss my laddie!

Night falls; I watch the moon ride high.
Perhaps he, too, looks at the sky,
And hears in dreams his mother sigh:
I miss my laddie!

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Wallace, Once Ardent Pacifist, Bids Midwest Arm for Defense

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—When the vice president of the United States gets off the train to make his speech at the opening of the new powder factory at Burlington, Iowa, today, it is significant that he will get off at a little station just outside of Burlington called Middleton.

There is nothing much at Middleton except a couple of freight cars, a few houses and a station sign. It is a typical country crossroad flag stop.

Yet suddenly, out of the flat Iowa prairies a new industry has come to Middleton, an industry as foreign to the corn belt as the philosophy of Henry Wallace is to war.

All of which is indicative of what is going on both in the heart of the Middle West and in the heart of Henry Wallace.

In the last war, munitions plants hugged the Atlantic seaboard. A few cities away from the coast, Pittsburgh, Detroit and Chicago, got a sprinkling of munitions orders, but no one ever dreamed of locating defense factories in Omaha, Tulsa, or Ft. Worth.

But now the USA is confronted with bombing planes capable of flying 5,000, even 7,000 miles, and so the Middle West has become like the Ural Mountains of Russia, and everyone knows that the more munitions plants Stalin has placed behind the Urals, the better are Russia's chances.

Just as great changes have taken place in the strategic location of munitions plants, so great changes have taken place in the mind of Henry Wallace. War, even national defense, always has been anathema to him. He could see no reason for building an army and navy, regarded them as destructive institutions.

Then last winter he went to Mexico, and came back a changed man. The United States, he began to feel for perhaps the first time, could be in real danger of invasion. The Middle West no longer was made impregnable by geographic luck. An invasion by air from South America, via Mexico, was by no means an impossibility.

So Henry Wallace, the Iowa farm boy who returns to the soil of Iowa today, will be speaking his own heartfelt convictions when he tells mid-west farmers that the time has come to beat their plowshares into swords.

FDR and Pappy.

THE hairbreadth victory of Governor Lee (Pass the biscuits, Pappy") O'Daniel in the Texas senatorial election was a tough blow to President Roosevelt, who openly espoused his young congressional lieutenant, 32-year-old Lyndon Johnson.

It also was a tough blow to eloquent Senator Tom Connally, who, while publicly protesting his neutrality was plugging for Attorney General Gerald Mann of Texas, No. 3 man in the race.

With the race over, the president is resigned to O'Daniel's election, but Connally is still a bit miffed by the failure of his candidate. He voiced this disappointment when he accompanied a group of congressional leaders to the White House for a legislative conference. Spotting Connally, the president inquired cheerily.

"Tom, when is Pappy coming to town? I'm anxious to get a look at his band."

Connally cogitated for a moment, then shot back with a grin:

"I don't know, but I do know if you hadn't butted into the election, he wouldn't be coming to town at all."

Strange Bedfellows.

THERE is one matter that is not on the agenda of the AFL building trades executive council meeting in Chicago this week, but about which labor chiefs are very curious—and will ask a lot of questions.

This is the sensational inside word that William ("Big Bill" Hutchinson, boss of the carpenters, has been secretly pow-wowing with the man he once slugged it out with in a spectacular Atlantic City fist fight—John L. Lewis.

Just why Lewis and Hutchinson have put their heads together is a mystery. But strongly suspected is a Lewis scheme to spring a surprise "peace" move with the AFL.

The AFLers are for peace, but not one that would enable Lewis to make himself the master of a united labor movement. This is exactly what he is believed to have up his sleeve.

The AFL chiefs recall very vividly Lewis' answer to Secretary Frances Perkins when she urged him several years ago to use his powerful influence to bring the AFL and CIO together.

"I will bring peace to labor," he rumbled, "when it suits my purpose to have peace."

Privately, AFL leaders make no bones that they are very leery of a John L. Lewis festooned with olive branches. They don't trust him and want no part of him in any guise.

Known Facts.

KNOWN facts about the Lewis-Hutchinson get-together are the following:

"Big Bill" made the first overture in a telegram congratulating Lewis on his radio broadcast bolting to Wendell Willkie. Before that, for six years, they had been bitter enemies, although once close AFL and GOP pals. As late as 1932, Lewis and Hutchinson went down the line together for Hoover against Roosevelt.

The NRA, with its famed Section 7a, rescued the United Mine Workers from the scrap heap, switched Lewis to the New Deal. Turning on his old AFL buddies, and after swapping blows with Hutchinson at the Atlantic City convention, Lewis set up the CIO with the backing of Sidney Hillman and his independent Amalgamated Clothing Workers. Raging with vengeance, Hutchinson led the movement that expelled Lewis from the AFL as a wrecker.

For six years their feud flamed. In 1936, Lewis went all-out for Roosevelt, and Hutchinson did the same for Landon as chairman of the GOP Labor Campaign committee. Then in 1940, they suddenly became friends again through their common hatred of Roosevelt.

Lewis answered Hutchinson's telegram with a cordial letter. This was followed several months later by a secret meeting in New York. They have had at least one other, more recently.

It is definitely known that at this meeting the re-united pals exchanged notes on their common hatred, "that man in the White House," and also discussed AFL-CIO peace.

Note: It has not yet been announced, but the CIO convention will be held in October in either Detroit or Cleveland. With Phil Murray in a hospital recuperating from a heart attack and barred by his doctors from any activity for several months, Lewis' "palace guard" has quietly started rigging the machinery to ensure his control of the convention.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Some Toms, Dicks and Harrys of Manhattan that O. Henry would have loved:

Harry McArdle—one of those vanishing Americans, the old school, cartoon-type, "Mr. Dooley" Irishman with his threadbare but dignified blue suit and battered derby. . . . He is a neighborhood patriarch around McSorley's ancient ale house, where Abraham Lincoln is supposed to have gone after his Cooper Union speech.

Hary is loved and respected by everyone. He is one of those rare natural-born comedians who can't open his mouth without saying something droll, but it wouldn't be fair to attempt a pale ink-and-paper sample of his wit; he has to say it. And when, after about his fourth round of ale, he struts "It's the hat me dear old father wore," you've seen an epochal event.

Sam—the blind newsboy at 59th street whom no one ever cheats. He is broad-shouldered with red hair and a freckled face.

His sense of touch is so fine that he can tell the denomination of any coin, and he saves Indian pennies. . . . He has hundreds of them stored in a box in his Third avenue room. . . . His favorite tune is "Tipperary," which he whistles softly and constantly. . . . He has been whistling it for 20 years. . . . "It's the greatest song in the world," he tells you. "When I whistle it, it makes me feel good."

IZZY FELDMAN—he's a necktie salesman. . . . Makes all his own ties from material bought at fire sales and at bargain basements. . . . Sometimes he makes ties from garments that seem to have had a glamorous past. . . . For instance, once he obtained a silk dress worn by the late, Tex Guinan and from it he made 20 neckties. . . . Sold them at 50 cents per. . . . Usually he asks 15 cents for his ties.

He has original little spiels that he gets off, uttering them in glad cries, extolling the virtues of his wares. . . . Izzy is a restless soul and drifts constantly about the city. . . . One day his stand will be at 3rd and 46th, the next it may be on 10th avenue. . . . "You can't do too bad in this business," he says. "After all, everybody wears neckties." Izzy is now married the third time, two former wives having died.

POP—that's all the name I have ever heard him called. . . . He is the doorman at a restaurant known hereabouts as Sam's Place. . . . Pop is white haired, in his seventies, but spry. . . . He has that fine gift of remembering names, and when people tip him he puts his tips in a separate savings. He never spends a tip.

Reared in an atmosphere of saloons, then speakeasies, now restaurants, where hard and soft liquors have alway been easy to obtain, he has never touched anything stronger than beer. He has never smoked. He has never had a bad cold, nor been ill for more than a day in his life. He has been outside of New York only twice in his life—both times to Washington.

He was in Washington the day the U. S. declared war on Spain, and again on the day the U. S. declared war on Germany.

"When are you going to Washington again, Pop?" I asked, thinking of the war headlines.

"Never—I hope," he said. "But, you never know . . ."

A Farmer's Diary

Saving the Birds

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

IN numerous hayfields, outside my own county, I saw where patches of clover or bunches of taller mixed grasses had been left uncut, when the hay was made. The cutter bar had been raised ten inches or so, then lowered again. I stopped and walked through one piece that had a number of such uncut bunches, but found no stone or other obstruction of any kind.

Twice a mother lark flew off as I approached, leaving her young piteously crying for food. Down at the lower corner of the field, I stepped into the midst of a brood of quail. The mother flew across the fence. Two tiny quails no bigger than large, early, female bumblebees, slipped out of sight beneath a small brown leaf. I knew from the movement of the grass and last year's strewn wild cherry leaves, that the hidden family was large—16 or 18, perhaps.

Near the center of the field, as I walked through a patch of grass, I stepped only a few feet from a mother pheasant, sheltering her chicks. She flew up, frightened, and her brood—ten, all gray and black—winged with difficulty about 30 feet and then ran to hide in another grassy clump.

I met the farmer near his drive, repairing fence and asked why the grass was left in clumps on the fields. He told me what I already had surmised.

"Just in the last four years," he said, "our Grange and our county agent and the farmers' institute have begun to educate farmers about saving the birds. When I was a boy, folks didn't realize what a help birds are in destroying insects and weed seeds. We used to cut the timber and clean up the fencerows and even kill the birds and call it good. Now practically every farmer hereabouts watches for nests in the grass when he cuts his hay and raises the cutterbar when a mother bird flies off. Some fellows even have dinguses attached to their machines to flush the birds from cover ahead of the knives.

"When I mowed that field yonder," he went on, "a quail flew off down at that corner. I raised the knives, and when I'd passed the place, went back to look. The nest was in tangled grass, hooded over at the top, with a little opening to the east. I got down low to look in and there was a whole nestful of pretty white eggs, littler'n a bantam's. They were worth savin', I thought. Likely they're hatched by now.

"A man don't need much imagination to see that there's more wild birds around these fields than there used to be—and this county's rating, agriculturally, is steadily going up. Besides he added, with a half agologetic smile. "I like to hear 'em sing and call all around the farm, every morning when I'm doin' chores before the sun is up."

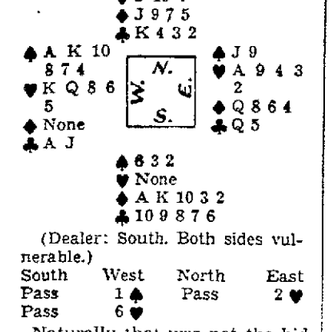
"The Authority on Authorities"

FINESSE LAST RESORT

WHENEVER you embark upon the play for a contract which you see can be made by means of a finesse, or if you have a sure thing for your contract and a finessing chance for an extra trick, you should postpone the finesse usually as long as you can. That is, especially, if you can try some other form of play first and still leave yourself the finesse opportunity if the other method doesn't work. In other words, the finesse is a last resort play if you are able to try something else first.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	6 ♥

Naturally that was not the bidding at all tables of the tournament where this hand was dealt. It varied tremendously, many pairs arriving at bad contracts, which ranged all the way from 3 No Trumps to 5-Spades. Put it down didactically that, when one partner holds five cards of a major suit and his partner has a four-card fit for him, the betting is heavy that they bid badly unless they play it in that suit. Barring, of course, those cases in which the same number of tricks seem to be in sight at No Trumps.

Against the 6-Hearts declarers, all Souths led the diamond K, ruffed in the dummy, but then the play varied. With the contract easy to make, some of the declarers sought an extra trick by trying the club finesse which failed. Others, however, had a better plan. After the opening ruff of a diamond, they cashed the heart A, K and Q, then the two top spades, hoping the Q would drop. It did. So on four more spades they put the last three diamonds and the club 5. The club A, a club ruff and a trump gave them the rest of the tricks.

If the spade Q had not dropped, a third one could have been ruffed, a second round diamond ruffed in dummy, two diamonds and a club discarded on three established spades, the club A cashed, and trumps used for the finish. There was no point at all to taking an early club finesse, when there were two other moves to make first.

PIE CRUST TIP

Roll out dough for top crust of pie an inch larger than the top of the pan. This allows for excess taken up by the filling and gives a side rim which can be pressed into extra dough coming from the lower crust.

High Style Fashions, Fancy Work

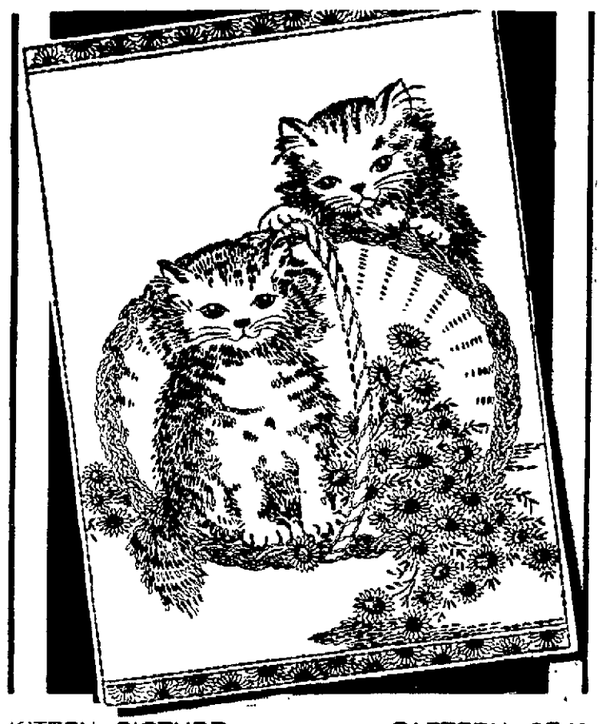
By MARIAN MARTIN

"However did you get so slim?" all your friends will exclaim when you appear in this frock for Pattern 9660 seems to add inches to your height and subtract inches from your width-across. The bodice panels curve down to form a single piece with each side of the shapely front waist girdle. This treatment gives graceful, slimming vertical lines, aided by the double front panelling of the skirt. The side sections of the bodice are cut very softly and are gathered onto the center panels.

Pattern 9660 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3½ yards 39 inch fabric.

Send 15 cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your Size, Name, Address and Style Number.

Send your order to The Mansfield News-Journal, Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.



KITTEN PICTURE PATTERN 2741

Send ten cents in coin for this pattern to The Mansfield News-Journal, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly Pattern Number, your Name and Address.

If you bid 1-No Ttump as a psychic on the South cards of this deal, West doubled and the next two players passed, what would you then do?

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I silently took the measure of Stephen Redfield as he put his querulous question. He was a big, handsome man physically, he was fairly keen mentally, and he certainly could act. He was what Mary calls "tops" in his profession.

But I found myself agreeing with Mary in her gibe at his not being a "particularly valorous person." He was not only a physical coward, I decided, but a mental one as well. His was the courage—if one may so debase the word—of the weasel instead of the lion. He could worry and kill something defenseless, or weaker than himself. He could not face in combat—mental or physical—anyone stronger than himself, or even of equal caliber.

"You are utterly mistaken in your premise, Mr. Redfield," I said, and again I purposely infused my voice with hauteur. "I did not need to tell Mr. Veritzen anything, even if I had wished to do so. He and Mary were here in the room when you telephoned."

"He was terribly angry at me," he said. "There's no telling what he may do. I had no idea I'd run into him."

"Will you kindly listen to me?" I asked, using the same manner and voice which I had found effective long ago in bringing to order the young high school lads in my classes.

"In the first place, Mary will be back here before you have put your questions to me, if you do not begin them.

"In the second place, no speculation on your part now will alter Mr. Veritzen's attitude in the least.

"In the third place, I promise you that I will use my influence with Mr. Veritzen to minimize his resentment against you. I am sure there will be no unpleasant aftermath of this incident."

I wanted to add "unless you yourself provide it." But I did not utter the words, and the next instant Stephen Redfield had seized my hand, carried it to his lips and was kissing it fervently.

"Oh, you are an angel, Mrs. Graham!" he said. "I never, never, will forget this."

"You will forget it at once," I told him sternly. "And you will tell me immediately what it is that you wish of me."

"No, no," he said. "I will not wait longer. I will tell you what I wish, but not why I wish it."

He stopped and waited so long that I prodded him again.

"Is it your wish that Mary should know about this thing you wish to ask of me?"

"Heavens, no!" he ejaculated. "Why—? Oh, I see. She will be back. No, I mustn't wait."

"You will be astonished at what I am going to ask you," he said measuredly, "and I must tell you that if you repeat my questions to anyone, or let anyone—anyone, remember — know that I have talked to you about anything except the theater—I cannot answer for the consequences."

I looked steadily at him with purposeful contempt in my eyes.

"I am not affected by threats," I said, "and if I answer your questions it must be without conditions. However, I have no reason to repeat what you will say to me."

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Aug. 1.

A particularly lively and eventful day is read from an interesting array of planetary forces. While there may be much stirring about, excitement and achievement through all forms of literary work, publicity, correspondence, communications and transportation, yet such culminations may encounter stubborn opposition, impediment and resistance, probably from surprising or unforeseen sources. Definite change or about-face in plans, place and associations may be needful to attain the desired objectives, in which large corporations, secret societies, political or fraternal bodies contribute to success.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate an eventual and successful year if their talent lies in the direction of writings, advertising, promotions, or travel, communication or agencies. Professional lines are stimulated, but from unexpected sources there may antagonism, best placated by compromise or tactfully yielding a point rather than by rancor or belligerency. Elders may prove obstinate.

A child born on this day should have much adaptability, originality, perhaps creative genius in a literary or professional way. It will have great stability.

A washed woolen sweater will keep its shape if dried on a specially made sweater fram, adjusted to the desired shape and size. These frames are inexpensive and make sweater washing easy and safe.

The first coins struck in what is now the United States were pine tree shillings, mare of silver and worth 12½ cents.

CHAPTER XXII

"You'd better start worrying about a job," Bonnie reminded her, and chuckling, she added, "It will be some shock for those girls down at the store to see you back. They were green with envy when you won the radio contest and left."

"They won't be jealous now," Doris assured her.

Don and Bonnie drove her to her boarding house and promised to see her again soon.

"If you get low, come over anytime," Bonnie said.

Doris felt relaxed by her day with Bonnie. What a blessing friends were! She went up to her room and switched on the light. A letter lay on the dresser

Without waiting to take off her coat or hat, Doris snatched it up in eager fingers. It bore a South American postmark.

Opening it, Doris saw that it was from Ricardo Torres. It was brief but to the point.

"My darling Doris: By this time you are in your own country so far away from me. But you are still in my heart, as you will always be. As I loved you once, I will love you forever. I beg you to reconsider, my dear, and to come back to your Ricardo, who waits patiently for your return."

Dear Ricardo! His few words brought him back to her mind quite vividly. His cheerful eagerness, his self-assurance, his protective attitude towards her. He still loved her, and wanted her.

Doris undressed and went to bed, but she read Ricardo's simple message over many times.

She recalled Bonnie's advice: "Ricardo might be the answer to everything."

And from the depths of her despair Doris began to wonder. Could she marry Ricardo now? When she considered it before she still hoped to win Jimmy. Now she knew that Jimmy was lost to her forever, and for so many reasons that no stroke of fortune could bring him back. With this realization, might she forget about him?

Tonight had been a revelation to her. She knew that Bonnie had no feeling of love for Don when she married him. Yet obviously she adored him now, even though she would not call love by its true name. What had wrought this miracle for Bonnie certainly could work for Doris as well. Couldn't Ricardo's sympathetic understanding, his wisdom and cleverness, win her devotion? Both Bonnie and Ricardo seemed so sure that it would work, in spite of Jimmy Allen.

"Maybe I'm the one who is wrong," Doris thought as she opened the window to the chilly night air.

Perhaps she could force herself to forget Jimmy by sheer willpower. After all, she must forget him sooner or later. She could not go on wrecking her life over a man she would never see again.

"I have a right to something out of life," Doris thought fiercely, and reminded herself that she was fond of Ricardo. She respected him deeply.

He had assured her many times he would teach her the true meaning of love. He would give her another chance at life, at romance, at new hopes, in a country far away from Jimmy Allen—and George Malone. It would be a new chapter, with the past over and forgotten.

"I'll do it!" Doris said out loud, and the sound of her own voice gave her strength and courage.

Here in the midnight it seemed quite sensible and logical. Why shouldn't she marry Ricardo Torres? From her heart came the answer—Jimmy!" . . .

But Doris was not listening to her heart. "From now on," she resolved, "I'm going to use my head!"

Doris awoke to a bright morning. The crisp autumn air was sun-flooded and as she stretched and yawned she recalled her resolution to marry Ricardo. Strangely enough it seemed quite as plausible at 8 o'clock as it had at midnight. She would send him a cable today. But first she would tell Bonnie.

Without waiting for Mrs. Ames' unsatisfactory breakfast, Doris took a bus to Bonnie's. Her friend greeted her with surprise.

"What on earth are you doing out at this hour?"

Doris threw her hat and coat on the couch. "I have something to tell you."

"Come into the kitchen," Bonnie commanded. "I'll heat up the coffee. Don just left."

Sitting in the cozy breakfast nook, Doris felt a new sense of security rise in her heart. While Bonnie brought cups and saucers, Doris sat quietly hugging her secret to herself. She watched her friend move about the spotless kitchen in her gaily colored house dress. Bonnie was happy. Everyone had a right to happiness and if this miracle could happen to Bonnie after marriage, surely it would work for Doris.

Bonnie drew up a chair. "Well, what is it?"

"I'm going to marry Ricardo," Doris announced.

Bonnie looked incredulous. "Not really!"

"Yes. I had a letter from him last night and he still wants me. I've decided you were right, Bonnie. Things have certainly worked out for you and Don. Why won't they for me? I'm tired of being heartbroken over Jimmy. I can't go on like this any longer. I'm not going to let myself think of him again. In time—I'll forget. I'll just have to!"

"You're absolutely right darling," Bonnie assured her. "I was worried about you last night. You looked so sad. And you're so young! It isn't right to let any man wreck your life. Especially when it's all so futile. I can tell every time you're thinking about Jimmy. Your whole expression changes. Marrying Ricardo will be the smartest thing you ever did. You couldn't go on cherishing illusions about Jimmy when you're married to a man who loves you and is kind and sweet."

"Ricardo is wonderful. Honestly, Bonnie, if it hadn't been for Jimmy, I might have loved him. He's everything a girl could ask for in a husband. Of course I don't like the idea of going so far away, but after all, maybe it's better that way."

"You bet it is!" Bonnie cried warmly. "And besides, Ricardo will probably let you come home once in awhile. You know, Doris," she added thoughtfully, "he must love you a great deal to want to marry you knowing that you're in love with someone else."

"He says I don't know what love is."

Bonnie's round eyes were serious above the rim of her coffee cup. "Maybe you don't at that. Jimmy sounds like an infatuation to me, nothing more."

Ignoring the clamor in her heart, Doris forced herself to say, "You're probably right." To herself she said. "It will be easier in time . . . God give me strength to go through with this."

In the face of her resolution, Doris turned aside every thought of Jimmy Allen. Every emotion that threatened her determination, she ruthlessly quelled. She would use all her will power, and as time went on his memory would fade until the whole thing became a strange and unreal dream.

"Won't it be exciting to live in Argentine?" Bonnie said, gathering up the dishes and plunging them into a dishpan of hot soapy water.

"Wonderful," Doris replied. "Ricardo wants to live in a big house."

COLONY RAKES SEA-GOING HAY AS SUN SHINES

Odd Massachusetts Industry Founded By Irish Deal In Moss.

SCITUATE, Mass.—(U.P.)—When is a fisherman not a fisherman? Or to be more vague, if possible, when is a farmer not an agriculturist?

This little New England coastal town shelters a colony of seasonal workers who defy industrial classification. They go down to the sea in rowboats but they do their fishing with garden rakes. Or, to put it another way, they do their farming through four feet of water.

In either case, the Scituate mossers are engaged in a unique occupation. Like gleaners of the sea they range the headlands of Massachusetts Bay, reaping the harvest of carriggeen moss that gathers in the rocky shallows.

The moss, sometimes called Irish-moss, is used for a variety of purposes—as a paint base, in the making of creams and jellies, and in the preparation of certain medicines.

Curiously the Scituate moss industry was founded by a small group of Irish immigrants several generations ago and has been carried on almost exclusively by their descendants ever since. They live a social and communal life of their own on a finger of land that thrusts out into the sea, literally making sea-hay while the sun shines.

But their tribal integrity is breaking up. The younger men are drifting away from mossing and seeking wider scope for their activity.

The oldtimers are shaking their graying heads and taking on college boys for the busy summer months. There signs that the final decline of the small, close-knit colony is in sight.

For one thing, competition from Japanese mossers on the West Coast (where the product is called "agar") has made serious inroads into the world market. The Scituate "Moss King," blue-eyed, angular Fred Conroy, asserts, however, that the West Coast moss is of far inferior grade.

Now some unromantic outlander has introduced a machine into Scituate for the processing of carriggeen—and the young fry, who are rolling stones at heart, say they will gather no moss.

IOWA FAITHFUL TO EX-CONVICT

State Pays Pension Monthly To Pardoned Prisoner Injured In Fall.

DES MOINES, Ia.—(U.P.)—Nearly 50 years ago Frederick M. Hull and several other prisoners at the Iowa penitentiary were standing on a scaffold when it fell, hurling them 60 feet to a concrete floor.

Three were killed. Another grabbed a rope and saved himself. Hull didn't die but he suffered 32 different bone fractures and was unconscious for 21 days. It was two years before he could walk without crutches.

Recently the Iowa legislature voted to appropriate Hull a pension of $30 a month for the next two years—as has been the custom of each legislature for 50 years.

Up to 1929 he received $20 a month, and then the increase was voted. He has received a total of $12,690 from the state and is the only pensioner of his kind.

Hull has moved to Minnesota, lives in a two-room house a mile out of Duquette—about 50 miles south of Duluth.

Today he moves with some difficulty. His jaw is crooked and his old fractures ache when the weather is damp. His left arm often is painful because of a bone infection contracted as a result of the injury.

Hull, who had been sentenced to three years for arson, was pardoned after the accident.

Now, once a month, he goes to Duquette to give solemn testimony before the keeper of the general store—who is also a notary public—that he is Frederick Milton Hull who fell with the prison scaffold.

U. S. HOLDS LEAD IN METEORITES

Texas Leads All Other States In Number That Fall Within Boundaries.

LOS ANGELES — (U.P.) — Texas leads all of the other states of the union in the number of meteorites that fall within its boundaries and the United States enjoys more meteorites than any other country in the world, according to Dr. Frederick C. Leonard, astronomer at the University of California.

In conjunction with Boris Slanin, one of his students, Dr. Leonard has been able to tabulate the meteoritic falls throughout the world over a long period.

The tables show that after Texas, with a total of 80 recorded meteoritic falls, come Kansas, 50; Colorado, 39; New Mexico, 31; North Carolina, 28; Nebraska, 24; Kentucky, 19; Tennessee, 19; Arizona, 18; Georgia, 17.

The United States, with a total of 499 meteoritic falls, leads all other countries. Next in order are India, 111; the Soviet Union, 109; Australia, 91; France, 56; Mexico, 55; Germany, 34; and Spain, 28.

The continent having the largest number is North America, with 581. Then comes Eurasia (Europe and Asia) with 553; Australia, 87; South America, 80; Africa, 71 and Oceania, 13.

Dr. Leonard has ascertained that there are 15 different factors which may lead one area to yield more meteorites than another.

Among them are climate and soil, which are more conducive to the preservation of meteorites; topography which may make discovery easier in some areas than others; special impact features such as meteorite craters which indicate meteoritic falls; population, which may be more curious and observing in one area than another, or which may be engaged in more outdoor occupations such as farming, ranching and mining.

GEN. JOHNSON: Predict Senate Will Boost Tax Measure

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

NEW YORK — In this puzzling war which, after all, is one of production, one uncertain and apparently unpredictable factor is the state of opposing equipment.

No matter how Hitler is progressing in Russia, as this column predicted when he started, it is no three-weeks push over. He must have expended, even through ordinary wear and tear, if not through loss and destruction, a mountainous supply of munitions and equipment—gasoline, fuel oil, lubricants, explosives, shells, airplanes, tanks and guns. The guntubes, especially of the largest cannon have a very limited life in action. In addition to battle-losses mechanized and motorized land ships—tanks and armored cars moving over tough terrain with few good roads — suffer an astonishing loss, even without ever firing a shot.

These modern armies can never be self-contained. They have to have life-lines for repairs, supplies and small parts running clear back to the home-front factories and these are extremely vulnerable. If they break down importantly it is as bad as a checkmate on the fighting front. The Germans lost the first Marne because their infantry outran their artillery and supply trains. If the armistice hadn't come in Nov. 11, 1918, our advance through the Argonne would have been stopped because of failure of our motor transport systems behind the forward movement.

Hitler in Russia is moving on much longer lines through much more sterile and forbidding country. It wasn't hard to beat the gun in predicting the slowness of this campaign. The error of the "switt-decision" experts was in comparing the short distances, the excellent road systems, the dense populations, the rich concentrations of supply in western Europe with the Nebraska-like terrain of Russia and Poland.

The French catastrophe was due to two causes—the weakly held defense of the keystone of resistance, the forest of Ardennes, and even more to the congestion of all roads by a dense and fleeing population. These conditions do not subsist on the eastern front where operations of the blitzkreig variety take much longer and are far more difficult.

Furthermore, for years there had been a considerable and constant exchange of student and observer officers between the Russian and German armies. Blitzkrieg was a kind of joint invention and, as has been observed here earlier, you can't made our younger officers believe that both didn't get its principles from studies and experiments at our infantry school at Fort Benning which our general staff ignored.

Of course, offsetting Hitler's losses in equipment and material are his tremendous captures of such stuff and similar Russian losses plus the fact that the Nazis have an efficient replacement manufacturing industry and the Reds haven't. That is a vital matter. It means that if Russia can't get new supplies she may crumple from that alone. It is hard to see where she will get them. She is too far away for us to give much aid.

There is one bright spot in the equipment problem to which not enough attention has been paid. It is that so-and-so-many airplanes isn't the answer. The question is how many can be kept in the air and how good they are up there. If one airplane can be kept aloft without stopping for repairs twice as long as its counterpart it is almost equivalent to doubling the production of that type.

The excellence and precision of our mechanical manufacture has always been better than German, French or British and certainly of Russia. According to most reports this is showing up marvelously in competing types of planes in this war. Maybe we shouldn't be too much discouraged at not getting out more planes. Maybe 15,000 of our planes is the equivalent of 25 000 of some of the wobblers they may meet Both our manufacturers and our airmen believe that.

STRIKE SNAGS PRODUCTION ON DEFENSE GOODS

SWOC Calls Work Stoppage at Timken Bearing's Columbus Plant.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Pickets today patrolled gates at the Timken Roller Bearing company plant, where spokesmen for the CIO-Steel Workers organizing committee said a strike virtually had halted production.

The walkout was ordered yesterday by Harry Mayfield, president of Local No 2173, after federal labor conciliator Hugh D. Friel failed to settle a dispute arising out of the discharge of five women. The plant employs about 2,600 persons and has defense orders.

Mayfield said that production had been reduced to not more than 10 per cent of normal, while William A. Fowler, general manager of the plant, said only that work was proceeding.

An estimated 300 women entered the plant at the 6:30 a. m. women's shift. Mayfield said that the normal shift was about 450.

Minor disturbances occurred during the night when pickets and spectators thronged about the plant, located at Fifth and Cleveland avenues. Ralph McDonald, who identified himself as "a secretary," received a broken bone in his foot when hit by a brick and was treated by a company doctor.

Streets along the plant were cleared finally of all but accredited pickets, who were instructed by Mayfield not to touch persons refusing to strike.

The company published in a morning newspaper a half-page advertisement that said:

"Timken plant is open and operating in all departments and on all shifts!"

The strike went into effect at the 4 p. m shift yesterday and Mayfield said that not more than 25 men entered the plant and that about 50 to 60 remained inside. A normal shift involves from 500 to 600 men. Neither the union nor company gave any estimate of the actual number of employes who quit work. Previously, members of the Independent Bearing Workers union said they opposed the strike and resolved to keep working.

The strike was authorized by members of Local No. 2173 a week ago. Mayfield said the union contends that Timken ignored, in firing the five women, a contract with the SWOC providing negotiation of grievances.

The women were relaesed, Mayfield said, after incorrectly numbered parts were found in work which had passed their inspection tables.

Timken also has plants at Canton, Mt. Vernon and Wooster.

PLAN 4-COUNTY DRAFT MEETING

State Selective Service Head, Aides Will Talk In City at Session Aug. 6.

Col. C. W. Goble, head of the selective service organization in Ohio, and four of his department directors are scheduled to speak at a four-county draft meeting in Mansfield next Wednesday night, it was announced today by county draftboard clerks.

The session will be held at 8 p. m. in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. Later in the evening, the state selective service leaders will attend a party for approximately 45 selectees at the American Legion home.

Col. Goble told the three county boards that he and his assistants will discuss recent changes in the draft laws and instruct the boards in the classification of the new group of 21-year-old registrants.

Col. Goble said the discussion will be designed to "give an interpretation of regulations so that the boards may be more consistent in arriving at registrants' classifications."

Board members, clerks, and examining physicians and dentists from Richland, Ashland, Knox and Morrow counties have been asked to attend the meeting.

Draft heads due to speak with Col. Goble are Col. Howard Boucher, chief of the state medical division of the selective service organization; Major Carl G. Wahl, head of the manpower division; Col. F. G. Spencer, chief of the occupational deferment division, and M. Ray Allison, director of the classification division.

200 MORE KITS ARE COMPLETED

Red Cross Volunteers Prepare Supplies for Selectees.

Two hundred more sewing kits for Richland county selectees, made by Red Cross volunteer workers under the supervision of Mrs. O. D. Fair, were sent to the Chamber of Commerce today for distribution at the next party to be given for selectees, Aug. 6, at the American Legion home.

This makes a total of 698 kits that have been assembled by Red Cross volunteers since the Soldiers-Citizens committee started dispensing them to selectees. Made of khaki, they contain thread, needles, pins, buttons, scissors and other equipment that will be useful at camp.

DIES IN ACTION

Report Son of Nazi War Chief Killed On Russian Front.

BERLIN — (U.P.) — An official news agency communique announced today that Lieut. Hans Georg Keitel, youngest son of Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command, had been killed in action on the Russian front. He was an artilleryman.

Death notices were published yesterday for Lieut. Walter Frick, son of Nazi Interior Minister Wilhelm Frick, killed in action as a cavalryman, and Maj. Gen. Karl Ritter Von Weber, commander of a German armored division.

FAIR OFFICIALS PLAN EXHIBITS, FEATURES FOR FOUR-DAY EVENT

With the Richland County fair less than three weeks away, fair board members and department heads are busy with plans for exhibits and entertainment features to make the annual exposition four days and nights of entertainment for everybody.

The fair will open Tuesday, Aug. 19 and continue through Friday, Aug. 22. There will be nightly programs in addition to the entertainment during the day. No definite program has been set up for the opening day.

Because the fair will be a month later than last year, farm produce will be more advanced and 4-H displays and exhibits of field and garden products are expected to be more complete than last year.

Premium lists have been issued by the fair board, offering awards amounting to hundreds of dollars for the best displays of livestock, fruit, vegetables, grain, and articles made by 4-H club members. Entries must be reported to department heads by 5 p. m. Aug. 16.

Feature acts in front of the grandstand will include Klein's Animal circus varieties, and tight wire performances by Tom and Betty Waters. Midget auto races are scheduled for Thursday and Friday nights of the fair and on Saturday night after it closes.

The opening day of the exposition has been designated as 4-H Club day. The program will include a 4-H Club girls' style revue, a parade of junior fair organizations, a trailer backing contest, and a milking contest.

Livestock will be judged Thursday. In the afternoon there will be a horse pulling contest, a band contest, and a show by Klein's Animal circus.

A pulling contest for heavyweight teams, a stock parade, tug-of-war, and another exhibition by Klein's Animal circus will feature the Friday program.

UP and DOWN THE STREET

In the excitement of the closing days of last week's campaign for old aluminum for defense materials, a pile of pots and pans at the Shelby postoffice was overlooked by the truckers collecting the contributions. County Treasurer-Elect Charles Payne, who drives over from Shelby every day, said there was too much of the aluminum to bring in his car, so he asked County Commissioner C. L. Mitchell to look into the oversight. Mitchell said a county pickup truck would be sent to Shelby today to get the pots and pans to include in the county's collection.

Jim Davis's "baby bank" really lived up to its name this week. When Davis come to the hospital to pay his bill for hospitalization of his wife and a brand new son, born last Friday, he produced a glass bank. He cracked the glass and out rolled $16.20 in dimes—enough to pay the entire bill. Davis said he had been collecting the dimes since January.

County Representative John Cattell gets today's citation for being kind to animals and conserving wildlife. Driving down Marion avenue he spied a rabbit being pursued by two dogs. He stopped his car, got out, and chased the dogs off the trail, leaving the cottontail to its freedom at least for a little while.

One of the city's oldest 'inhabitants' was a victim of Tuesday night's severe electrical storm. A white oak tree, five feet and eight inches in diameter, located in Middle park was split open and set afire by one of the many bolts of lightning striking throughout the city. The tree burned steadily all yesterday and was still smoldering today. Nearby residents said that the tree has been in the park as long as they can remember.

H. A. CONN DIES

A resident of Mansfield for the past 12 years, Howard A. Conn, 63, of 442 Sturges avenue, died last night at his home following an illness of several months.

Mr. Conn who was born in Van Wert, had lived in Lexington for several years before coming to Mansfield where he was employed by Farm Tools, Inc. He was a member of the South Main Evangelical church.

He is survived by his widow, Ethel Meyers Conn; two sons, Harry M of Detroit, Mich., and Willard W. Conn, of Mansfield and two grandchildren. Also surviving are four brothers, Kenneth and Ernest Conn, of Mansfield, Fred, of Amoy, and Lloyd, of Missouri; and two sisters, Mrs. Jacob Hoffman, of this city and Mrs. Francis Simmons, of Pueblo, Colo.

The body was taken to the Finefrock funeral home where services will be held Saturday at 2:30 p. m. Rev. C. L. Kern, of the South Main Evangelical church, will officiate. Burial will be in Shauck cemetery.

THREE NAMED TO RESERVE CORPS

Mansfielder, Two Others Listed For Appointments With Army.

Appointments to the Officers' Reserve Corps were accepted today by a Mansfielder and two youths from neighboring cities, according to an announcement by the war department at Washington.

Martin F. Moritz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moritz, 371 Garfield place; Paul F. Barton, 116 East Church street, Galion, and Walter J. Gregory, Mt. Gilead, were the men named by the department.

Moritz, who graduated from the University of Dayton in June, was commissioned as a second lieutenant at that time, his mother, Mrs. Frank Moritz, said. He has been stationed for the past two weeks in a quartermasters' training school at Philadelphia, she said.

GETS POSITION

Former Mansfielder named Director of Publicity at Plum Brook.

John L. Coontz, 55, Mansfield newspaper man in the early 20's, has been appointed public relations director at the Plum Brook TNT plant, at Sandusky, it was announced today.

Coontz, who left Mansfield in 1925, has been a feature and science writer since that time. He is attached to the construction quartermaster's office at the Sandusky plant.

LEADERS SAY BILLION MORE TO BE SOUGHT

House Continues Debate Under 'Gag' Rule, Expect Final Vote Monday.

WASHINGTON — Congressional leaders predicted today that when the new $3,500,000,000 tax bill reaches the senate an administration effort will be made to increase it by a million dollars or more.

The prediction came as the house continued debate on the record-high revenue measure under a "gag" rule which drastically curtails the possibility of the bill being altered on the floor.

Leaders agreed to bring the matter to a final vote Monday, after which the senate finance committee, under its new chairman, Sen. George (D. Ga.) will take it over.

During these hearings, it was predicted, the treasury will ask that the measure be changed so as to raise even more vitally needed federal revenue.

Basis for this plea, congressmen said, will be a statement that when the treasury set $3,500,000,000 as the new tax goal some three months ago, defense expeditures were not nearly so high as they are now.

At that time Treasury Secretary Morgenthau declared that he wished to finance two-thirds of total government spending out of taxes and one-third by borrowing.

Federal expenses have now increased so vastly, it was pointed out, that in order to do this some $4,500,000,000 or more will have to be raised in additional taxation.

Meanwhile, the house prepared for a showdown Monday on the most controversial provision of the present bill—the one requiring husbands and wives to file joint income tax returns

Under the compromise "gag" rule, an amendment to delete this section will be the only amendment permitted except for minor changes approved by the house ways and means committee.

The provision, forbidding husbands and wives from filing individual returns in order to avoid the higher surtax brackets, is expected to raise $300,000,000 of the money contemplated in the bill.

10 Appointed to Serve on Defense Nutrition Group

The appointment of 10 persons to membership on an executive committee that will govern the newly organized Richland County Council of Nutrition for Defense was completed today by Mrs. Harold Baer, council chairman.

Recommendations for membership were made by the council at a preliminary meeting last week in the common pleas court room when Mrs. Baer was elected as chairman and authorized to proceed with the appointment of the committee.

Representative of county interests which will participate in an immediate program of education to raise the standards of nutrition in Richland county, the committee includes Dr. William B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, Probate Judge Stuart Cramer and Dr. D. A. Wier of the Richland County Medical association.

Mrs. Kathryn McMichael, county executive. Aid to Dependent Children, will represent the social agencies; Miss Mary Gramly, active in farm organizations, agricultural interests; Mrs. Howard Keene of Westinghouse, industrial home economists; George Satterlee, restaurant proprietors; John Vogt, president of the Mansfield Pasteurized Milk association, the milk industry, and Ray Fields, labor.

Mrs. K. E. Buhr of the Parent-Teacher association was named to select a representative of that group to serve on the committee.

COLONY RAKES SEA-GOING HAY AS SUN SHINES

Odd Massachusetts Industry Founded By Irish Deal In Moss.

SCITUATE, Mass.—(U.P.)—When is a fisherman not a fisherman? Or to be more vague, if possible, when is a farmer not an agriculturist?

This little New England coastal town shelters a colony of seasonal workers who defy industrial classification. They go down to the sea in rowboats but they do their fishing with garden rakes. Or, to put it another way, they do their farming through four feet of water.

In either case, the Scituate mossers are engaged in a unique occupation. Like gleaners of the sea they range the headlands of Massachusetts Bay, reaping the harvest of carriggeen moss that gathers in the rocky shallows.

The moss, sometimes called Irish-moss, is used for a variety of purposes—as a paint base, in the making of creams and jellies, and in the preparation of certain medicines.

Curiously the Scituate moss industry was founded by a small group of Irish immigrants several generations ago and has been carried on almost exclusively by their descendants ever since. They live a social and communal life of their own on a finger of land that thrusts out into the sea, literally making sea-hay while the sun shines.

But their tribal integrity is breaking up. The younger men are drifting away from mossing and seeking wider scope for their activity.

The oldtimers are shaking their graying heads and taking on college boys for the busy summer months. There signs that the final decline of the small, close-knit colony is in sight.

For one thing, competition from Japanese mossers on the West Coast (where the product is called "agar") has made serious inroads into the world market. The Scituate "Moss King," blue-eyed, angular Fred Conroy, asserts, however, that the West Coast moss is of far inferior grade.

Now some unromantic outlander has introduced a machine into Scituate for the processing of carriggeen—and the young fry, who are rolling stones at heart, say they will gather no moss.

IOWA FAITHFUL TO EX-CONVICT

State Pays Pension Monthly To Pardoned Prisoner Injured In Fall.

DES MOINES, Ia.—(U.P.)—Nearly 50 years ago Frederick M. Hull and several other prisoners at the Iowa penitentiary were standing on a scaffold when it fell, hurling them 60 feet to a concrete floor.

Three were killed. Another grabbed a rope and saved himself. Hull didn't die but he suffered 32 different bone fractures and was unconscious for 21 days. It was two years before he could walk without crutches.

Recently the Iowa legislature voted to appropriate Hull a pension of $30 a month for the next two years—as has been the custom of each legislature for 50 years.

Up to 1929 he received $20 a month, and then the increase was voted. He has received a total of $12,690 from the state and is the only pensioner of his kind.

Hull has moved to Minnesota, lives in a two-room house a mile out of Duquette—about 50 miles south of Duluth.

Today he moves with some difficulty. His jaw is crooked and his old fractures ache when the weather is damp. His left arm often is painful because of a bone infection contracted as a result of the injury.

Hull, who had been sentenced to three years for arson, was pardoned after the accident.

Now, once a month, he goes to Duquette to give solemn testimony before the keeper of the general store—who is also a notary public—that he is Frederick Milton Hull who fell with the prison scaffold.

U. S. HOLDS LEAD IN METEORITES

Texas Leads All Other States In Number That Fall Within Boundaries.

LOS ANGELES — (U.P.) — Texas leads all of the other states of the union in the number of meteorites that fall within its boundaries and the United States enjoys more meteorites than any other country in the world, according to Dr. Frederick C. Leonard, astronomer at the University of California.

In conjunction with Boris Slanin, one of his students, Dr. Leonard has been able to tabulate the meteoritic falls throughout the world over a long period.

The tables show that after Texas, with a total of 80 recorded meteoritic falls, come Kansas, 50; Colorado, 39; New Mexico, 31; North Carolina, 28; Nebraska, 24; Kentucky, 19; Tennessee, 19; Arizona, 18; Georgia, 17.

The United States, with a total of 499 meteoritic falls, leads all other countries. Next in order are India, 111; the Soviet Union, 109; Australia, 91; France, 56; Mexico, 55; Germany, 34; and Spain, 28.

The continent having the largest number is North America, with 581. Then comes Eurasia (Europe and Asia) with 553; Australia, 87; South America, 80; Africa, 71 and Oceania, 13.

Dr. Leonard has ascertained that there are 15 different factors which may lead one area to yield more meteorites than another.

Among them are climate and soil, which are more conducive to the preservation of meteorites; topography which may make discovery easier in some areas than others; special impact features such as meteorite craters which indicate meteoritic falls; population, which may be more curious and observing in one area than another, or which may be engaged in more outdoor occupations such as farming, ranching and mining.

GEN. JOHNSON: Predict Senate Will Boost Tax Measure

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

NEW YORK — In this puzzling war which, after all, is one of production, one uncertain and apparently unpredictable factor is the state of opposing equipment.

No matter how Hitler is progressing in Russia, as this column predicted when he started, it is no three-weeks push over. He must have expended, even through ordinary wear and tear, if not through loss and destruction, a mountainous supply of munitions and equipment—gasoline, fuel oil, lubricants, explosives, shells, airplanes, tanks and guns. The guntubes, especially of the largest cannon have a very limited life in action. In addition to battle-losses mechanized and motorized land ships—tanks and armored cars moving over tough terrain with few good roads — suffer an astonishing loss, even without ever firing a shot.

These modern armies can never be self-contained. They have to have life-lines for repairs, supplies and small parts running clear back to the home-front factories and these are extremely vulnerable. If they break down importantly it is as bad as a checkmate on the fighting front. The Germans lost the first Marne because their infantry outran their artillery and supply trains. If the armistice hadn't come in Nov. 11, 1918, our advance through the Argonne would have been stopped because of failure of our motor transport systems behind the forward movement.

Hitler in Russia is moving on much longer lines through much more sterile and forbidding country. It wasn't hard to beat the gun in predicting the slowness of this campaign. The error of the "swift-decision" experts was in comparing the short distances, the excellent road systems, the dense populations, the rich concentrations of supply in western Europe with the Nebraska-like terrain of Russia and Poland.

The French catastrophe was due to two causes—the weakly held defense of the keystone of resistance, the forest of Ardennes, and even more to the congestion of all roads by a dense and fleeing population. These conditions do not subsist on the eastern front where operations of the blitzkreig variety take much longer and are far more difficult.

Furthermore, for years there had been a considerable and constant exchange of student and observer officers between the Russian and German armies. Blitzkrieg was a kind of joint invention and, as has been observed here earlier, you can't made our younger officers believe that both didn't get its principles from studies and experiments at our infantry school at Fort Benning which our general staff ignored.

Of course, offsetting Hitler's losses in equipment and material are his tremendous captures of such stuff and similar Russian losses plus the fact that the Nazis have an efficient replacement manufacturing industry and the Reds haven't. That is a vital matter. It means that if Russia can't get new supplies she may crumple from that alone. It is hard to see where she will get them. She is too far away for us to give much aid.

There is one bright spot in the equipment problem to which not enough attention has been paid. It is that so-and-so-many airplanes isn't the answer. The question is how many can be kept in the air and how good they are up there. If one airplane can be kept aloft without stopping for repairs twice as long as its counterpart it is almost equivalent to doubling the production of that type.

The excellence and precision of our mechanical manufacture has always been better than German, French or British and certainly of Russia. According to most reports this is showing up marvelously in competing types of planes in this war. Maybe we shouldn't be too much discouraged at not getting out more planes. Maybe 15,000 of our planes is the equivalent of 25,000 of some of the wobblers they may meet. Both our manufacturers and our airmen believe that.

STRIKE SNAGS PRODUCTION ON DEFENSE GOODS

SWOC Calls Work Stoppage at Timken Bearing's Columbus Plant.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Pickets today patrolled gates at the Timken Roller Bearing company plant, where spokesmen for the CIO-Steel Workers organizing committee said a strike virtually had halted production.

The walkout was ordered yesterday by Harry Mayfield, president of Local No. 2173, after federal labor conciliator Hugh D. Friel failed to settle a dispute arising out of the discharge of five women. The plant employs about 2,600 persons and has defense orders.

Mayfield said that production had been reduced to not more than 10 per cent of normal, while William A. Fowler, general manager of the plant, said only that work was proceeding.

An estimated 300 women entered the plant at the 6:30 a. m. women's shift. Mayfield said that the normal shift was about 450.

Minor disturbances occurred during the night while pickets and spectators thronged about the plant, located at Fifth and Cleveland avenues. Ralph McDonald, who identified himself as "a secretary," received a broken bone in his foot when hit by a brick and was treated by a company doctor.

Streets along the plant were cleared finally of all but accredited pickets, who were instructed by Mayfield not to touch persons refusing to strike.

The company published in a morning newspaper a half-page advertisement that said:

"Timken plant is open and operating in all departments and on all shifts!"

The strike went into effect at the 4 p. m shift yesterday and Mayfield said that not more than 25 men entered the plant and that about 50 to 60 remained inside. A normal shift involves from 500 to 600 men. Neither the union nor company gave any estimate of the actual number of employes who quit work. Previously, members of the Independent Bearing Workers union said they opposed the strike and resolved to keep working.

The strike was authorized by members of Local No. 2173 a week ago. Mayfield said the union contends that Timken ignored, in firing the five women, a contract with the SWOC providing negotiation of grievances.

The women were released, Mayfield said, after incorrectly numbered parts were found in work which had passed their inspection tables.

Timken also has plants at Canton, Mt. Vernon and Wooster.

PLAN 4-COUNTY DRAFT MEETING

State Selective Service Head, Aides Will Talk In City at Session Aug. 6.

Col. C. W. Goble, head of the selective service organization in Ohio, and four of his department directors are scheduled to speak at a four-county draft meeting in Mansfield next Wednesday night, it was announced today by county draftboard clerks.

The session will be held at 8 p. m. in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. Later in the evening, the state selective service leaders will attend a party for approximately 45 selectees at the American Legion home.

Col. Goble told the three county boards that he and his assistants will discuss recent changes in the draft laws and instruct the boards in the classification of the new group of 21-year-old registrants.

Col. Goble said the discussion will be designed to "give an interpretation of regulations so that the boards may be more consistent in arriving at registrants' classifications."

Board members, clerks, and examining physicians and dentists from Richland, Ashland, Knox and Morrow counties have been asked to attend the meeting.

Draft heads due to speak with Col. Goble are Col. Howard Boucher, chief of the state medical division of the selective service organization; Major Carl G. Wahl, head of the manpower division; Col. F. G. Spencer, chief of the occupational deferment division, and M. Ray Allison, director of the classification division.

200 MORE KITS ARE COMPLETED

Red Cross Volunteers Prepare Supplies for Selectees.

Two hundred more sewing kits for Richland county selectees, made by Red Cross volunteer workers under the supervision of Mrs. O. D. Fair, were sent to the Chamber of Commerce today for distribution at the next party to be given for selectees, Aug. 6, at the American Legion home.

This makes a total of 698 kits that have been assembled by Red Cross volunteers since the Soldiers-Citizens committee started dispensing them to selectees. Made of khaki, they contain thread, needles, pins, buttons, scissors and other equipment that will be useful at camp.

DIES IN ACTION

Report Son of Nazi War Chief Killed On Russian Front.

BERLIN — (U.P.) — An official news agency communique announced today that Lieut. Hans Georg Keitel, youngest son of Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command, had been killed in action on the Russian front. He was an artilleryman.

Death notices were published yesterday for Lieut. Walter Frick, son of Nazi Interior Minister Wilhelm Frick, killed in action as a cavalryman, and Maj. Gen. Karl Ritter Von Weber, commander of a German armored division.

FAIR OFFICIALS PLAN EXHIBITS, FEATURES FOR FOUR-DAY EVENT

With the Richland County fair less than three weeks away, fair board members and department heads are busy with plans for exhibits and entertainment features to make the annual exposition four days and nights of entertainment for everybody.

The fair will open Tuesday, Aug. 19 and continue through Friday, Aug. 22. There will be nightly programs in addition to the entertainment during the day. No definite program has been set up for the opening day.

Because the fair will be a month later than last year, farm produce will be more advanced and 4-H displays and exhibits of field and garden products are expected to be more complete than last year.

Premium lists have been issued by the fair board, offering awards amounting to hundreds of dollars for the best displays of livestock, fruit, vegetables, grain, and articles made by 4-H club members. Entries must be reported to department heads by 5 p. m. Aug. 16.

Feature acts in front of the grandstand will include Klein's Animal circus varieties, and tight wire performances by Tom and Betty Waters. Midget auto races are scheduled for Thursday and Friday nights of the fair and on Saturday night after it closes.

The opening day of the exposition has been designated as 4-H Club day. The program will include a 4-H Club girls' style revue, a parade of junior fair organizations, a trailer backing contest, and a milking contest.

Livestock will be judged Thursday. In the afternoon there will be a horse pulling contest, a band contest, and a show by Klein's Animal circus.

A pulling contest for heavyweight teams, a stock parade, tug-of-war, and another exhibition by Klein's Animal circus will feature the Friday program.

SET TO RELEASE 250 PHEASANTS

Kimmel To Free Game Birds In County Next Tuesday.

C. I. Kimmel, Richland county game warden, today announced that next Tuesday he will release 250 pheasants in different parts of the county. Kimmel said the pheasants had been raised by the Richland county fish and game protective association from chicks secured from the State division of conservation.

Boy Scouts and sportsmen will assist him, the warden said, but the exact location for the releases will not be made public.

Laff-a-Day

"Relax, Mr. Pillsbury. I've already given you a five for this hole!"

In the excitement of the closing days of last week's campaign for old aluminum for defense materials, a pile of pots and pans at the Shelby postoffice was overlooked by the truckers collecting the contributions. County Treasurer-Elect Charles Payne, who drives over from Shelby every day, said there was too much of the aluminum to bring in his car, so he asked County Commissioner C. L. Mitchell to look into the oversight. Mitchell said a county pickup truck would be sent to Shelby today to get the pots and pans to include in the county's collection.

Jim Davis's "baby bank" really lived up to its name this week. When Davis come to the hospital to pay his bill for hospitalization of his wife and a brand new son, born last Friday, he produced a glass bank. He cracked the glass and out rolled $16.20 in dimes—enough to pay the entire bill. Davis said he had been collecting the dimes since January.

County Representative John Catlett gets today's citation for being kind to animals and conserving wildlife. Driving down Marion avenue he spied a rabbit being pursued by two dogs. He stopped his car, got out, and chased the dogs off the trail, leaving the cottontail to its freedom at least for a little while

One of the city's oldest 'inhabitants' was a victim of Tuesday night's severe electrical storm. A white oak tree, five feet and eight inches in diameter, located in Middle park was split open and set afire by one of the many bolts of lightning striking throughout the city. The tree burned steadily all yesterday and was still smoldering today. Nearby residents said that the tree has been in the park as long as they can remember.

THREE NAMED TO RESERVE CORPS

Mansfielder, Two Others Listed For Appointments With Army.

Appointments to the Officers' Reserve Corps were accepted today by a Mansfielder and two youths from neighboring cities, according to an announcement by the war department at Washington.

Martin F. Moritz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moritz, 371 Garfield place, Paul F. Barton, 116 East Church street, Galion, and Walter J. Gregory, Mt Gilead, were the men named by the department.

Moritz, who graduated from the University of Dayton in June, was commissioned as a second lieutenant at that time, his mother, Mrs. Frank Moritz, said. He has been stationed for the past two weeks in a quartermasters' training school at Philadelphia, she said.

GETS POSITION

Former Mansfielder named Director of Publicity at Plum Brook.

John L. Coontz, 55, Mansfield newspaper man in the early 20's, has been appointed public relations director at the Plum Brook TNT plant, at Sandusky, it was announced today.

LEADERS SAY BILLION MORE TO BE SOUGHT

House Continues Debate Under 'Gag' Rule, Expect Final Vote Monday.

WASHINGTON — Congressional leaders predicted today that when the new $3,500,000,000 tax bill reaches the senate an administration effort will be made to increase it by a million dollars or more.

The prediction came as the house continued debate on the record-high revenue measure under a "gag" rule which drastically curtails the possibility of the bill being altered on the floor.

Leaders agreed to bring the matter to a final vote Monday, after which the senate finance committee, under its new chairman, Sen. George (D. Ga.) will take it over.

During these hearings, it was predicted, the treasury will ask that the measure be changed so as to raise even more vitally needed federal revenue.

Basis for this plea, congressmen said, will be a statement that when the treasury set $3,500,000,000 as the new tax goal some three months ago, defense expenditures were not nearly so high as they are now.

At that time Treasury Secretary Morgenthau declared that he wished to finance two-thirds of total government spending out of taxes and one-third by borrowing.

Federal expenses have now increased so vastly, it was pointed out, that in order to do this some $4,500,000,000 or more will have to be raised in additional taxation.

Meanwhile, the house prepared for a showdown Monday on the most controversial provision of the present bill—the one requiring husbands and wives to file joint income tax returns.

Under the compromise "gag" rule, an amendment to delete this section will be the only amendment permitted except for minor changes approved by the house ways and means committee.

The provision, forbidding husbands and wives from filing individual returns in order to avoid the higher surtax brackets, is expected to raise $300,000,000 of the money contemplated in the bill.

10 Appointed to Serve on Defense Nutrition Group

The appointment of 10 persons to membership on an executive committee that will govern the newly organized Richland County Council of Nutrition for Defense was completed today by Mrs. Harold Baer, council chairman.

Recommendations for membership were made by the council at a preliminary meeting last week in the common pleas court room when Mrs. Baer was elected as chairman and authorized to proceed with the appointment of the committee.

Representative of county interests which will participate in an immediate program of education to raise the standards of nutrition in Richland county, the committee includes Dr. William B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, Probate Judge Stuart Cramer and Dr. D. A. Wier of the Richland County Medical association.

Mrs. Kathryn McMichael, county executive, Aid to Dependent Children, will represent the social agencies, Miss Mary Gramly, active in farm organizations, agricultural interests; Mrs. Howard Keene of Westinghouse, industrial home economists; George Satterlee, restaurant proprietors; John Vogt, president of the Mansfield Pasteurized Milk association, the milk industry, and Ray Fields, labor.

Mrs. K. E. Buhr of the Parent-Teacher association was named to select a representative of that group to serve on the committee.

Welcome To—

A son, born to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Howell, Mansfield R. D. 4, yesterday at General hospital.

A son, born to Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Black, 75 East Fourth street, yesterday at General hospital.

Radio Network Aids In Patrol of Super Highway

HARRISBURG—(INS)—A "radio cop" patrols the new Pennsylvania superhighway, overhauling motorists who try to evade the 70-mile-an-hour speed limit.

Installed at a cost of more than $300,000, the "cop" is a modern two-way radio network, probably the first of its kind used on any highway. Twenty-six squad cars of the State motor police are equipped with transmitting and receiving sets, and there are 24 two-way sets at the interchanges and 25 additional receiving points along the 160-mile route.

Turnpike officials also have installed the sets in tunnel ventilation buildings, maintenance cars, fire trucks and in automobiles allotted to them.

SENTENCED TO MUSEUM

COLCHESTER, Eng — (UP) — Three boys aged 10, 11 and 12 who stole 50 Roman coins from Colchester Castle museum, were ordered to spend an hour each on four Saturday afternoons at the museum by the chairman of the local juvenile court. The chairman told them: "You will realize you can look at the exhibits, but not take them away."

BORROWER FINED $10

YUMA, Ariz.—(U P)—Here's what comes of borrowing a friend's fishing license: An unnamed Yuman paid a $10 fine when he was caught red-handed using a friend's fishing permit. The reason he was apprehended? The game warden who collared the culprit happened to be a friend of the absent licensee.

Ice Aids Army In Building of New Airplane Base

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—(INS)—Ice—long regarded as one of aviation's worst hazards—recently came to the aid of army airmen in the construction of a new airplane base at Salt Lake City's municipal flying field.

Confronted with the problem of lowering sixteen 25,000 gallon gasoline tanks into their pits, contractors filled the excavations with blocks of ice, set the tanks on top and let nature take its course. When the ice melted, the tanks rested evenly on the bottom of the pits.

The tanks form part of a unique underground fuel system in which water—also an airman's hazard where gasoline is concerned—plays an important part. Water will be pumped into the bottom of the tanks, forcing the gasoline out through the top and through various fuel lines at the field.

Findlay Oilers Win From Braves, Play Here Tonight

Sport Podge by Rex Hess

Dear Rexford:

How about a job umpiring in that baseball league? My golf clubs have melted, my game is so hot, so I've turned my attention to the piscatorial art so I can perfect that.

* * *

I've started in fishing
And I won first prize
On a fish that I weighed
Because of its size.

I'd seen him quite often,
Sometimes just a peek,
It's hard to believe, but
I stalked him a week.

Last Thursday I hooked him,
It took quite a while.
Before I could land him
He towed me a mile.

The fish that I landed
More luck seemed to bring,
For I ended my fishing
That day with a string.

I entered the contest.
When weighed, we all found
The prize-winning finny
Weighed over a pound.

I HAVE started fishing,
And HAVE won a prize
On a fish that I weighed
Because of its size.

But the fish that won it
Was not one I bought,
But one from the string
My dad-in-law caught.

* * *

(Table of weights and measures for use in fishing: 3 days—1 week; 40 yards-1 mile; 17 minutes—1 hour; 3 fish—1 string; 7 ounces—1 lb.)

* * *

I hope when you get this
The day isn't hot.
You'd take the day off on
My brainwork, you pot.

Yours truly,
Piscatorial Pete.
(Alias Hammerin' Harry,
the Meanderin' Mehock.)

Mayer Equals Golf Record

Ties Season's Best Mark At Possum Run.

Joe Mayer yesterday tied his own record for the best nine-hole match score turned in this season at Possum Run golf course.

* * *

Playing in the Westinghouse league, Joe toured the layout in 32 strokes, four under par.

* * *

Mayer was the only par breaker on the course, but banging along in even par figures of 36 were Al Kushin and Vin Tipul.

Bob Feller Fails In Third Try

Misses 20th Victory as Heving Bows to Senators.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Cleveland Indians got plenty of hits last night but the pitching failed and Washington squared their series with 7 to 6 decision.

* * *

It was the third time that Bob Feller tried for his 20th victory and failed. The defeat was charged to Joe Heving, who went to the hill in the ninth after Bob retired for a pinch-hitter.

Now 11 games in back of the Yankees and only 4½ in front of Boston, the Redskins called on Al Milnar today for the capital finale. Sid Hudson was due for the Senators.

Washington won the night tussle with a two-run rally in the last inning. With one man out Heving got in trouble by walking George Case. Roger Cramer promptly doubled him home with the tying tally and Harry Eisenstat was summoned from the Cleveland bullpen. Buddy Lewis walked on four pitches and Cecil Travis laced a double to left to plate the deciding marker.

The Indians had gone ahead with two runs in their half of the ninth on singles by Roy Weatherly, who batted for Feller, Lou Boudreau, Clarence Campbell and Gerry Walker.

Feller gave up nine hits, fanning four and walking three.

Oscar Grimes, who started at first base, was chased from the game in the fifth inning for protesting a decision at the plate.

A wave of world series fever swept St. Louis today as the Cardinals—playing suspiciously like the world champion gas house gang of 1934—perched atop the National league with a three-game margin over Brooklyn.

They licked the Dodgers yesterday 6 to 4 after that 3½ hour tie struggle of Tuesday and fully expected to knock Brooklyn off again this afternoon in the last game of one of the most crucial of crucial series.

* * *

The Cardinals have been at or near the top all season, but the home town fans have gone down with their false hopes too often to be fooled easily. So when all the world series talk broke loose suddenly it was as noticeable as the heat.

* * *

President Sam Breadon of the Cardinals, who estimates a pennant is worth $1,900,000 to a city, says they haven't started printing series tickets yet—but they're thinking about it.

The Cardinals have the stamina and courage that is required to come from behind and win the close games—the battles that count.

The Pittsburgh Pirates yielded third place to Cincinnati again by dropping a 3-2 ten-inning verdict to the Boston Braves while the Reds were pelting the New York Giants 9-0. Bucky Walters acquired his 13th triumph in the latter affair.

The Phillies and Chicago Cubs split a doubleheader. A six-run fifth inning gave the Phils the first session 8-4. Chicago captured the nightcap 5-3 with Tot Presnell pitching three-hit ball in six innings of relief.

* * *

Action in the American league was confined to two night games. Washington beat the Cleveland Indians 7-6 and Bob Feller failed for the third consecutive time to snare victory No. 20.

* * *

The Philadelphia Athletics took a 5-3 ten-inning victory over the Chicago White Sox with Sam Chapman accounting for all the A's runs on two homers.

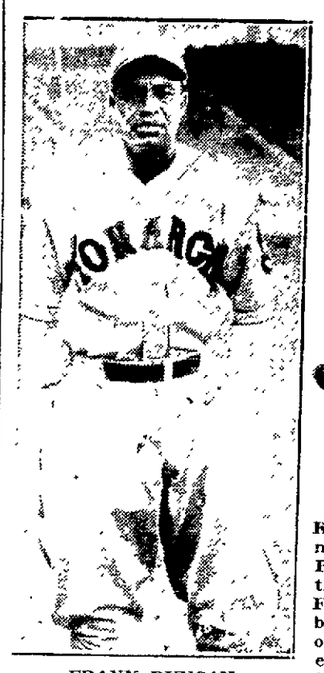
Here's Monarch Battery



FRANK DUNCAN

SATCHEL PAIGE

The famous battery of the Kansas City Monarchs, who will meet a strengthened Liberty Park ball club Monday night at the Fairground, is shown above. Frank Duncan receives the fire ball of the most famous Monarch of all, Satchel Paige, who is rated as one of the greatest pitchers in baseball today.

Satchel Paige Contracted To Hurl In Mansfield Game

Satchel Paige, world's greatest colored baseball pitcher, who is being brought to Mansfield fairgrounds Monday night at 8:30 to pitch part of the game for the Kansas City Monarchs, world champion colored nine, against the Liberty Parks, is one of the most publicized baseball players in the world today, including Joe DiMaggio and Bob Feller.

The metropolitan dailes are continually lauding the efforts of the great colored hurler and only last Sunday more than 50,000 fans paid $1.05 top to see Satchel pitch in Comiskey Park, Chicago. Even more remarkable is the fact that thousands of other fans were refused admittance to Comiskey Park, which normally seats around 43,000.

Satchel Paige's publicity does not stop with the big city dailies. No less than four national publications have recently carried feature articles portraying the life and exploits of the great colored star who bested Dizzy Dean six straight games immediately after the sensational Dean pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a World Series victory over the Detroit Tigers.

These magazines were "Life," "Friday," "Esquire," and "The Saturday Evening Past."

Nor does the publicity on the "man who carries the grip" end with newspapers, magazines, radio, etc. Even big league ball players carry the torch for Satchel. And don't think all the big leaguers are not familiar with his record.

Joe DiMaggio is one of the Satchel Man's greatest boosters. After going hitless against Paige in 16 trips to the dish and then connecting, the ball busting DiMaggio said, "He's the fastest there is. Bring on those American League pitchers, now. I'm ready."

In booking the Kansas City Monarchs to play here, promoter Hank Rigney of Toledo stipulated that Satchel must pitch two or more innings. He also extracted a promise from Joe Atton, business manager and catcher of the Liberty Parks, that a professional pitcher would be brought here to oppose the colored stars.

Rigney at present is dickering with Johnny Whitehead, former Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Brown hurler who was recently released by the Toledo Mud Hens. If Whitehead, who is a free agent, does not get a job in pro ball by Monday night, he will probably be here to oppose Satchel. A positive announcement on this will be made late this week.

Gates at the fairgrounds will open at 7 o'clock Monday night.

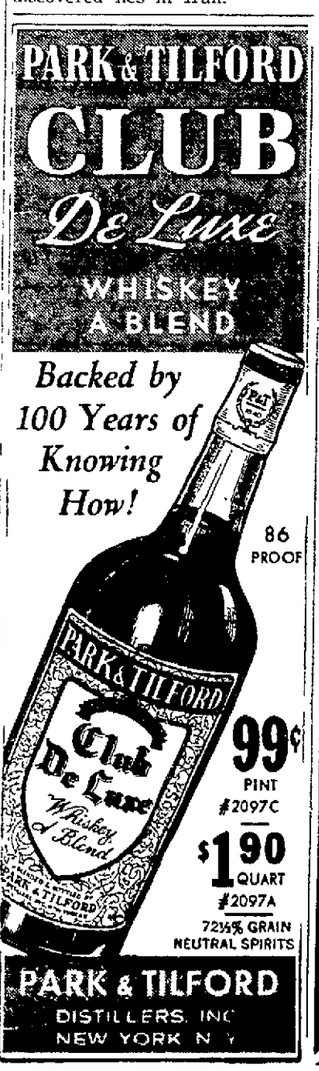
Harmon-Evashevski Paired for Tilt

CHICAGO— (AP) —Tommy Harmon and Forest Evashevski, Michigan's famed runner and blocker, will romp together once more.

The Wolverine twosome, scourge of midwestern gridirons for three years, will team up this time with other celebrated college seniors of 1940 to engage the powerful Chicago Bears Aug. 28 in the annual All-Star game in Soldier field.

The starting lineup against the pro champions, in addition to the Michigan pair, will consist of Dave Rankin, Purdue, and E. Rucinski, Indiana, ends; Nick Drahos, Cornell, and Ernest Pannell, Texas Aggies; Augie Lio, Georgetown, and Tommy O'Boyle, Tulane, guards; Rudy Mucha, Washington, center; George Franck, Minnesota, at halfback opposite Harmon, and George Paskvan, Wisconsin, fullback. Evashevski is tabbed at quarter.

The richest single oil field ever discovered lies in Iran.



Providents Meet Jinx

Weatherman Spoils Softball Bargain Bill.

Mansfield Provident Loan girls didn't have a pull with the right party last night, the guy who has the say-so over the weather.

* * *

Storm clouds as dark and heavy and low as an orge's heart hung over the Fairground ball park, and even dropped a bit of a sprinkle at 7:30 game time as the state champion girls' softball team prepared to play the doubleheader that was to raise funds to send them to this year's tourney at Youngstown.

* * *

Softball fans, remembering the storm of the night before, wisely stayed at home, and only 118 of the hardier and more optimistic variety were on hand.

The girls' troubles didn't end there. At 5:30 yesterday afternoon the manager of the Akron Merchants called to inform them his team had been ordered to play in the Akron district tournament after having drawn a bye, and would be unable to make the Mansfield trip. He arranged for Ravenna to substitute.

Massillon Merchants arrived just at game time, but the Ravennas, held up by a cloudburst at Lodi, didn't get her until after nine o'clock. In the meantime the Providents took a 10 to 9, nine-inning victory from Massillon in a game in which each club scored eight runs in the first three innings.

* * *

Ravenna proved no match for the Providents who hustled through a 12 to 0 victory in five frames.

Bourns Enters Semi-Finals

Defeats Gene Rudolph In Hard-Fought Match.

Lowll Bourns yesterday became the first to reach the semi-finals of The News-Journal City Tennis tournament after a long, hard battle with young Gene Rudolph at Woodlawn court.

Bourns captured the first set at 6-4 but the Johns Park star came back fighting to take a 10-8 decision in the second set. But the 28 games needed to decide the first two sets took their toll on the youngster as he fell before Baurns' attack 6-1 in the deciding set.

Andy Zoll defeated young Bill Heichel in another singles match 6-2, 6-2, and will meet Thornton Moore this afternoon with the winner entering the semi-finals.

Two racquet-swinging News-Journal reporters, Bill Murray and Bud Springer, surprised the veteran Moore-Bob Ellison doubles team with a spirited argument in the first set before Moore and Ellison won a 6-3 decision, and went on to take the match at 6-1 in the second set.

The victory made Moore and Ellison the first to reach the quarter-finals in the doubles tourney.

Only junior singles match played yesterday went to three sets as Gene Miller defeated Albert Franzen 6-2, 2-6, 7-5.

Rain Tuesday and Wednesday has delayed play in all scheduled divisions of the city tournament, and weather conditions this morning indicated there would be further postponements of matches for the same reason.

Players are advised that it is the duty of both opponents in postponed matches to get in touch with each other to arrange the earliest possible playing date.

ABRAMS CLOUTS OUT WIN OVER BILLY SOOSE

NEW YORK — (AP) — Little Georgie Abrams finally has punched his way out of the second fiddle job in the middleweight jazz band.

The husky Washington walloper took a furlough from his naval reserve station last night and all but punched the ears off Billy Soose in a rousing ten-round clouting party. Billy's world middleweight championsip—as recognized in New York and California—was not on the line.

Griffore Holds Tribe To Six Scattered Hits

Chuck Byers Gets Job of Putting Mansfield Back on Winning Track

THE FINDLAY OILERS tossed their pitching staff, Big Jack Griffore, at Mansfield's Braves last night, and he set them down with six hits, all singles, to cash in a 6 to 3 victory.

Tonight the Braves will send Chuck Byers out to avenge that loss when the two teams tangle again at the Fairground at 8 o'clock.

The loss at Findlay last night dropped the Braves two and a half games behind the pace-setting Fremont Green Sox in the Ohio State league's second-half race as the Sox and Lima were rained out.

Fostoria, just a game and a half behind the Tribe in third place failed to take advantage of the Mansfield setback, losing to Tiffin 4 to 3.

* * *

A four-run splurge in the fourth inning, scored on four hits, won the game for the Oilers. Outside of that one inning, Rudy Okleson hurled his best game in several weeks, and gave promise of future aid to a crippled Brave hurling staff caught in an epidemic of sore arms.

* * *

Errors helped Mansfield to its three markers, the Braves chalking up one run in the second on two hits, one in the fifth on one hit, and one in the eighth on one hit. The Braves wasted only one blow, that one coming in the sixth.

Findlay got a run in the third on two hits, and one in the seventh on one hit.

Mutryn and Salem collected two hits each, for four of Mansfield's six blows.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—Saratoga is filled to the brim with racing visitors, but there is very little of the old mazuma around. . . . Twentieth Century Fox now reported dickering with Billy Conn for a flicker. . . . Fight Manager Eddie Mead, who had a 25 per cent slice of Fritzie Zivic has been paid off by the fighter himself. . . . Frankie Frisch has tabooed golf for the Pirates. . . . Although Dewey Fragetta has booked fighters for appearances in all parts of the world, the longest trip he ever made away from his Times Square office was to Little Rock, Ark., this week to handle Buddy Knox against Bob Sykes. . . . Clark Shaughnessy, master of the T formation, and Bernie Bierman, of Minnesota, are the headliners for the Iowa School Athletic association's coaching school at Boone, Aug. 18-21. . . . Henry Armstrong who has been sparring a bit with Billy Conn on the coast, says the Pittsburgher has the swiftest left hook he ever looked at.

HOW TO MAKE FANS.

At the Yankee stadium the other day a foul bounced into the stands and was picked up by a kid. . . . A middle-aged gent grabbed the ball out of the youngster's hand and went away from there. . . . President Ed Barrow promptly sent to the dugout for a new ball for the kid.

SPORTS BULLETIN BOARD.

This corner miscued when we chronicled that Mel Ott had never hit a homer in Boston. . . . Mel's admirers are writing in to say it ain't so. He smacked one into the right field fans off Ed Brandt about eight years ago and belted another into the same territory on Sept. 24, 1938.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

B. M. Atkinson, jr., Louisville Times: "Admiral Standley: 'We must clear the Atlantic of these pirates!' . . . Larry MacPhail just wants to clear the National league of them."

Bill Werber of the Reds, who spends his winters selling life insurance, has still another sideline. He writes and sells outdoor stories to the pulp magazines and does all right at it, too. . . . The boys were talking about the $30,000 salary Charlie Gehringer is supposed to be getting from the Tigers. Jimmy Foxx, supposed to be around the top, himself, said: "No matter what has been printed, I've never got that kind of dough in my life."

300 WINNER DIES

NASHUA, N. H. — (INS) — The baseball world today mourned Michael (Smiling Mickey) Welch, 82, who helped hurl the New York Giants to their initial pennant in 1888. Welch, who resided in Holyoke, Mass., was one of 12 Major league pitchers to win over 300 games during his career.

SHELL BECOMES PUBLIC ENEMY

ST. JOSEPH, Mo.—(U.P.)—A rusty, 119-pound artillery shell is public enemy No. 1 on the list of Detectives Ed Burke and Roy Rose.

Last week the officers found a junk dealer hammering on the metal bands around the shell in an effort to take it apart. This procedure worried the detectives no end and they convinced the dealer that the place for that shell was at the bottom of the Missouri river. With great care the officers deposited the shell in the watery depths.

This week it turned up in another junkyard. Two youths had found it when the river receded after recent rains and had taken it to the junk dealer.

Detectives Rose and Burke, growing older, gingerly repeated the water cure for the shell. This time they picked a deeper part of the river.

STOCK MARKET TAKES UNEVEN PRICE TRENDS

Rail Issues Climb While Other Leaders Lag; Bullish Sentiment Seen.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Fractions to a point were tacked on rails and other favorites in today's stock market but many leaders were neglected. Dealings were lively at intervals. Trends were slightly uneven near the second hour.

Southern Railway, Southern Pacific, Consolidated Aircraft and Wheeling Steel managed to edge into new high territory for the year.

Wall Street seemed bullish over a number of corporation earnings statements although these were offset to some degree by the recognition mounting taxes were cutting profits seriously.

Market followers studied the compilation of the Engineering News-Record which indicated the recently rising curve of building operations was flattening out to some extent.

The survey placed heavy construction awards for the week ended Tuesday at 16 per cent under the near-record level of the preceding week.

Notice was taken of the Dun & Bradstreet summary showing bank clearings in 23 cities for the week concluded yesterday topped the same week a year ago by 24.2 per cent but were $621,941,000 less than in the week before.

in terms of other goods, which they had in 1909-1914.)

Chairman Smith (D., S. C.) of the senate agriculture committee likewise announced flat opposition to any attempt to fix farm products.

On the house side, Republican Leader Martin (Mass.) supported the general opposition to "runaway prices" but added that "I do not believe Leon Henderson is the right man for the job" of controlling prices.

President Roosevelt said the legislation should include power to "establish ceiling for prices and rents, to purchase materials and commodities when necessary, to assure price stability, and to deal more extensively with excesses in the field of installment credit."

Senator Taft (R. Ohio), declaring that "we do need price legislation in some form," told reporters he favored a program granting administration to a five-man board. He suggested that the board be composed of Henderson, the secretaries of treasury, commerce and labor and a representative of the federal reserve board.

"Praises BEE BEE'S For Marvelous Relief from Kidney, Prostate Trouble"

Camden Man Declares He Suffered Much Agony for Four Years with Pains in Hips, Legs, and Back. Now Feels 100% Better After Taking BEE BEE'S

Mr. J. C. Fulton, 64 years of age, 178 South Main street, Camden, Ohio, declares:

"I am a traveling salesman and I have to drive a lot in all kinds of weather. This driving has bothered my kidneys for the past four years. My condition was worse in cold weather.

"I was dizzy all the time and my loss of vitality and sleep made me so cross and disagreeable. My nights were broken up by getting up so many times. Some nights I would have to arise six times. Now that I have taken Bee Bee's, I have to arise only once at night, and sometimes not at all. Two years ago I had to have my urine drawn by a doctor. I had terrible pains in my back and over my right hip and over my right kidney. It was hard for me to straighten up on account of the pains. My right leg would become numb and cold and I would have to swing it to get the circulation started. The neck of my bladder would burn and sometimes I couldn't urinate for five or ten minutes. Now, since I have taken Bee Bee's I feel fine and sleep well. I have many friends in Piqua and Middletown, Ohio, and nearby places and I will recommend Bee Bee's to them and everyone who suffers as I have."
